Columbus, N. M., March 9.—Five hundred Villa bandits attacked this town at 4:30 o'clock this morning, killing a number of civilians, men and women, and burning down the town for an hour and a half. They were driven off by three troops of the 13th cavalry and retreated at six o'clock, leaving part of the town in flames.

Several Mexicans killed. A large number of Mexicans were killed. Their bodies dotted streets and were being picked up by the Americans as they emerged from the ruins of dwellings and hotels. There appeared to be no wounded. Several guests were burned to death in the central hotel, which was one of the first buildings fired by Villa's men. Mexican bandits standing outside the flaming buildings, shot down A. L. Ritchie, proprietor of the hotel, and W. R. Walker, a guest, as they attempted to dash out of the door. Both were down when picked up later.

C. C. Miller, owner of a drug store, was shot as he tried to enter the door of the Hoover hotel, an adobe structure, whose mud walls protected a score of women and children who remained in the rooms, while a howling mob of bandits surged through the surrounding streets.

American Soldiers Dead. Although they first attacked the camp of the 13th cavalry, it suffered little, although a number of American soldiers were killed and wounded and a number of cavalry horses ridden off by the Mexicans as they rode back toward Mexico after daylight. The attack was a complete surprise, the bandits appearing in the distance, catching a telegram to Hacienda, New Mexico, last night, saying that he was at the Nogales ranch, in Chihuahua, near the border. At least forty-four men from the 13th cavalry were killed, signed ostensibly by the American caretaker of the ranch and stated Villa personally was at the ranch house.

All the while, however, the Mexican bandit leader was making his way from Boques Grandes ranch, about twenty-five miles southwest of here. A Mexican scout gave an intimation of this. He reported late last night that he saw two parties of Villa's men moving eastward from Basques Grande toward Palomas, an abandoned Carranza outpost six miles directly south of here.

Cavalry Patrols Poked. Colonel H. J. Slocum, commanding the 13th cavalry, has heavy patrols out and two troops of cavalry at Gibson's ranch, about twenty miles east of here. Carranza customs guards at the border gates, three miles south of Columbus, had dug a few rifle pits for the Carranza soldiers, who fled from Palomas when Villa appeared in the vicinity several days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton James and J. N. Dean, merchants, were later added to the list of Americans killed. Villa came over the line at this point apparently and the Carranza soldiers are reported to have joined him, employing his men in open order. Villa sent them to a deep ditch running up from the border, and paralleling the road skirting the United States army camp, the customs house and the railroad station.

The light here. The families of A. L. Riggs, customs officer, and that of L. Jager, station agent of the El Paso and Southern railroad, were in the midst of it but no member of either family was hurt.

Lieutenant Castleman, officer of the day, turned out all the men remaining in the camp. Shrieking battle cries, the Mexicans in overwhelming numbers rushed down the hill, toward the town north of the railroad tracks. A courier was sent to Major Brindley, at Gibson's ranch, fifteen miles east, to bring up his troops as fast as possible. The first volley of rifles awoke the townspeople.

Men Led by Villa. Villa is said to have been seen by several Americans urging on his men. He came out to the east to the El Paso to prevent any call for American troops stationed there. The telephone also went out of commission. While part of his forces fought the hastily rallied American troops, Villa is said to have sent out snipers and machine gunners. Houses throughout the town were riddled with bullets.

His wife and two children, in the living quarters of the customs house, barricaded themselves behind mattresses on the floor. L. Jager and his wife and two children on the ground, during the attack, Villa was shouting the same.

In the section house nearby, Foreman S. H. McCullough and his wife and four children sought safety by taking refuge from the flames, fast to the floor. Bullets flew close over their heads.

A bullet wrecked the station clock. All who remained inside were comparatively safe in most cases.

Children Kept Busy. C. C. Miller was shot as he dashed from a drug store to the Hoover hotel across the street. He fell with his head inside the door.

Snipers posted in front of frame buildings which had been set on fire, sought refuge from the flames, fast to the floor. The light of lamps started out of the windows, and the flames, suddenly, promptly brought a shower of bullets. Every house in town and every window appeared to have been hit from once to a dozen times.

Civilians armed themselves, and from vantage points within their homes, answered the shots of the Mexicans. One of the bandits sought to entice Americans out into the streets by speaking English. J. F. Dean was caught in this way. A Mexican who spoke excellent English tried to lure him. Dean emerged from a doorway, and his reply in English brought him to an American and brought his death.

Cry of "Vive Villa." At the same time, another American shouted, "They who are you?" "Vive Villa," came the reply. "I don't know who he is," the American answered, "but I have some of him left here scattered in the streets." The American pointed to the street where half a dozen dead bandit raiders lay in the pale light of dawn. The quick flash of a few pistol shots was visible, and disclosed the forms in the street, but Villa was not among them. Villa apparently left when Colonel Slocum's troops began pressing the snipers to the south.

Sunday School Workers Shot. Walton Walker, who was shot at the Central hotel, with the proprietor, J. T. Ritchie, was a delegate to the New Mexico state convention of Sunday schools. His body was burned in the ruins of the hotel.

Mrs. Rachel Walker, also a delegate to the convention, was saved by Jolly German and his partner, Bea Aguire, United States customs border riders, who tied sheets to her arms and lowered her from an upper window.

Walker was taken from the arms of his wife by one of the bandits, who invaded the hotel. Despite her cries and appeals for mercy, the bandit told her he wanted her husband and then shot her down. She was taken to the hospital.

Major Frank Thompson with two troops of the 13th cavalry was sent to have crossed the border in pursuit of the retreating Mexicans.

Troop G, stationed at the border gate here, caught the retreating Mexicans on the bank and killed eighteen.

Corporal Wiswall of the same troop, was killed, shot through the head in the left breast.

A number of the Mexican wounded were taken to the post hospital. Colonel Slocum's revolver was shot out of his hand as he fought with his quarters. The bullets dented the colonel's weapon, making it useless.

J. J. Moore, a merchant, was shot and killed. A chauffeur driving in an auto with an El Paso license, name unknown, was killed and his body burned.

Three Ranchers Hanged. Arthur H. Henshaw, former of the Palomas ranch, William Scott, and James O'Neill, captured by Villa on Tuesday, were hanged and their bodies burned, according to information received from the Carranza forces.

The American soldiers killed are: Frank Kendall, Troop K; Sergeant Mark W. Henshaw, Troop K; Corporal Paul Simon, Sergeant, Troop K; Nierberg, band; Corporal Harry Wiswall, Troop G; Fred A. Grubin, Troop F.

The wounded: Jess P. Taylor, Troop F; Thomas Butler, Troop F; Theodore Kolzarke, Troop L; Michael Barnard, machine gun troop; John V. Brown, Troop K; James Vennar, Troop M; John Keogh, Troop K; and Lieutenant C. C. Benson, Troop G.

Personal papers of Villa were found in a portmanteau found by a United States trooper, just west of the American camp. Villa told Colonel Slocum that Villa left the Boques Grandes ranch Tuesday, made a journey north, and about four o'clock yesterday afternoon left a point on the Boca Grande and started for the border.

Villa in Personal Charge. "Traveling north they crossed the boundary between Mexico and the United States," said the Mexican, "and entered by direct running past the cavalry camp. Villa was in personal charge and declared he was going to kill every American. He did not treat him right. Villa said Carranza could not make peace in Mexico. With Villa were six aides."

The Mexican, who begged that his name be not used, said that he had previously given out by Carranza's officials, that before leaving the Santa Anna district in western Chihuahua, Villa freely stated that he intended to force intervention by Mexico into States by raising American territory and killing everybody in sight.

May Cause Interference. Washington, March 9.—Faced by a new crisis in Mexican affairs by the Carranza revolution, American officials admitted that President Wilson might find it difficult to refrain longer from actual interference.

Who favor a peaceful settlement, fear most, is an outbreak in congress with its consequent effect upon the country. The senate, which particularly contains many vigorous critics of the administration's Mexican policy, has just settled down from the flurry over the Cusi massacre of several weeks ago.

At the White House the only word given out, was that Carranza had taken to punish the Villa bandits, but did not indicate whether General Carranza would be called upon to do so, or whether American troops would be sent over the line.

Baker Receives Reports. First reports of the Columbus raid were received at the White House yesterday. President Wilson was having his first conference with Newton D. Baker, the new secretary of war.

Secretary Baker transmitted to President Wilson reports as quickly as they were received at the war department. It was at the White House, that vigorous steps would be taken to punish the bandits. The president directed Secretary Baker to do everything possible to protect Americans.

Failure of Portugal to Reply to Ger-

Open Rupture.—Thirteenth
Nation in War.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, March 9.—Germany declared war on Portugal at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and handed his passports to the Portuguese minister.

The rupture between Germany and Portugal was brought about by the act of Portugal in requisitioning German merchantmen that had been interned in her ports. Following the seizure of these vessels, Germany addressed an ultimatum to Portugal, demanding return of the ships. So far as is known this ultimatum was ignored.

There have been frequent reports that Portugal was about to declare war with Germany because of her treaty relations with Great Britain, which binds Portugal to place 10,000 at the disposal of Great Britain when required.

Portugal is the thirteenth nation to enter the war.

The declaration issued. "The Portuguese government by these acts of hostility, openly gave evidence that Portugal considers herself England's vassal, for whom England's interests and welfare are paramount in comparison with other considerations. The Portuguese government seized the ships in a fashion national provocation to Germany. The board the ships and the Portuguese flag with the war emblem set, while the national flag flew at half-mast.

Regarding events of the day, the German minister to Portugal protested against the illegal seizure of ships in Portuguese ports. Nevertheless the Portuguese government declared semi-officially in Lisbon newspapers, that there had been no German protest. The Portuguese minister of foreign affairs also denied the existence of a German protest.

The Portuguese minister of foreign affairs declared on his word of honor to a member of the staff of the Italian newspaper, Corriere, that Germany had entered no protest.

Deny German Protest. "The German minister asked for a rectification of the semi-official declaration, but without success. It was only on March 4 that the Portuguese minister at Berlin handed to the foreign office a Portuguese note denying the seizure of ships in Portuguese ports. A copy of this Portuguese note was sent to the German minister at Lisbon together with instructions to transmit the already quoted declaration to the Portuguese government.

Advise Germans to Leave. London, March 9.—German residents in Oporto and throughout Portugal have been advised by their consuls to proceed to Spain immediately, according to a dispatch from the Telegraph company from Lisbon. It is expected diplomatic relations will suffer a break this week.

And Also Realizes It Might Be Mistake to Nominate Him.—Statement Given to New York Paper.

New York, March 9.—Colonel Roosevelt, who is now at Trinidad, B. W. I. in a statement given out today through the New York Evening Mail, emphatically declined to be a candidate in the primaries of Massachusetts or in any other state.

I will not enter into any fight for the nomination, the colonel said, and will not permit any factional fight to be made in my behalf. Indeed, I will go further and say that it would be a mistake to nominate me, unless the country has in its mood something in the line of a revolt against the party devoted itself to ideals, but to the purpose measurably to realize those ideals in America.

of Trout Released.

An important meeting of the Rod and Gun club will be held at the city hall tomorrow evening at eight o'clock at which time there will be reports from the committees that had charge of the banquet held last night. The committee who purchased the ring-neck pheasants to be released on the state preserve north of the city. A large attendance is desired and President F. B. Cronin stated this afternoon there was important business to be brought before the club at this meeting.

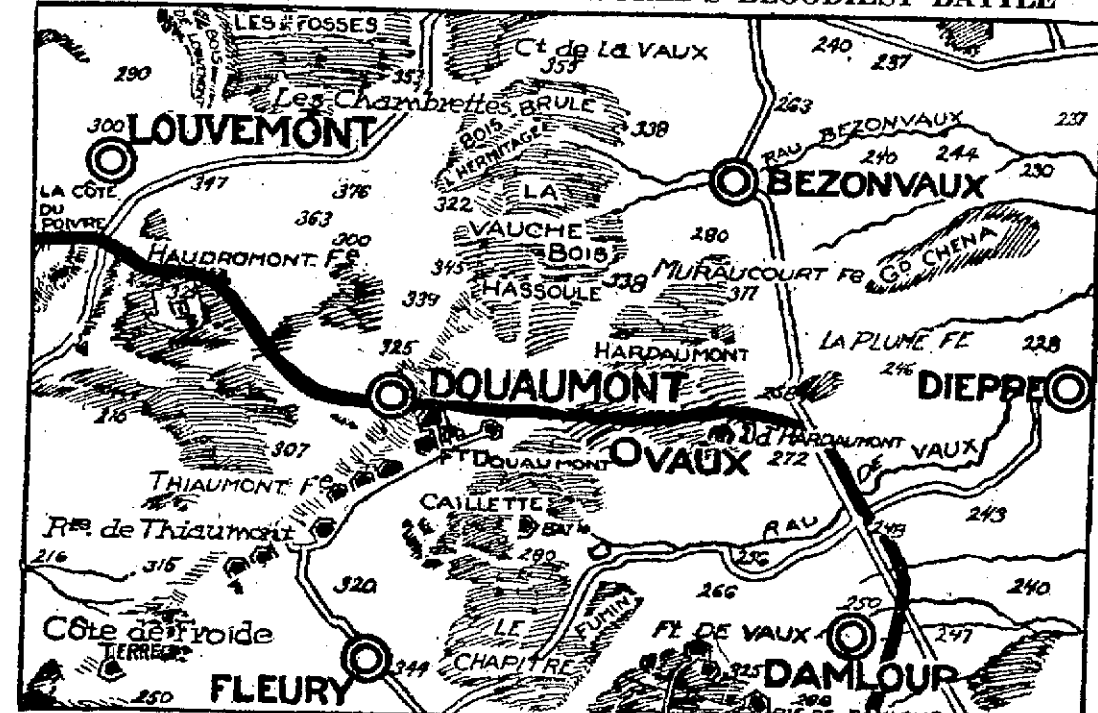

On Monday nine cans of speckled brook trout, which numbered between twenty and thirty thousand, were released in the headwaters of the three mile creek by two members of the club. On Wednesday President Green was in St. Charles, Ill., to purchase the pheasants for the preserve.

The birds will be shipped within ten days' time and at the present time coops are being planned to house them at the farm of James Caldwell, north of the city.

NO LONGER A SECRET

Utterances of Prominent Bull Moosers
and Their Activity in La Follette's
Interest Bore Out Prediction.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 9.—Several weeks ago the announcement was made to the effect that the Roosevelt vote in Wisconsin had virtually been a combination with Senator La Follette.

No Longer Secret. The large number of Bull Moosers on the radical side and the fact that they had been prominent in the reception of Senator La Follette on his tour of the state gave the first hint of this combination of things. Now the Bull Moosers are all in the open with the proposition. One of the men who handled the Roosevelt campaign in the state four years ago, a man who is an active Roosevelt man, told the writer while Mr. La Follette was making his assembly chamber speech that the Bull Moosers expected to have the whole delegation, providing the first ballot, for Roosevelt.

We figured that if we got a part of the delegation," he said, "that after the first ballot we could convince the others. We didn't. The Bull Moosers convert the Philipp delegates to Roosevelt, and therefore we decided we had better go in with the other fellows."

Go over the heads of the radical candidates. Take Mauteau of Fond du Lac. A Bull Mooser since there was such an animal. A. W. Sanborn of Roosevelt. He won't deny he is for Roosevelt. He'll deny he is for Roosevelt. Gittings of Racine is another. Roosevelt was for Blaine for governor, and why should not Blaine be for Roosevelt for president?

Sheldon for Roosevelt. It is not only in the delegate slate that the Roosevelt men gained a foothold. When at the recent radical meeting in Madison an executive committee was named to handle the delegate campaign, the members selected was G. M. Sheldon of Fond du Lac. That Mr. Sheldon is for Roosevelt still can not be denied. In we take his own word for it. In the caboose of the train, the Roosevelt men between Tomhawk and Merrill, in the last named city, in the presence of the writer and the newspaper man and Senator La Follette, Mr. Sheldon declared that he was for Roosevelt for president, now and forever. Mr. La Follette and the other newspaper man and the Roosevelt man, at the side of the caboose, and Mr. Sheldon sat between them. The writer sat opposite facing the three. Mr. La Follette, Mr. Sheldon, had talked progressive politics for time, and the senator took a nap. It was then that Mr. Sheldon confided to the other newspaper man and the writer that he was for Roosevelt.

More than this, radical papers who talked several weeks ago about going to Chicago to vote for La Follette to assume his new duties. Mr. Baker assumed his new duties. Mr. Sheldon sat between them. The writer sat opposite facing the three. Mr. La Follette, Mr. Sheldon, had talked progressive politics for time, and the senator took a nap. It was then that Mr. Sheldon confided to the other newspaper man and the writer that he was for Roosevelt.

ENTIRE FAMILY IN JAIL
FATHER, MOTHER AND SONS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., March 9.—For the first time in the history of Dane county an entire family is behind the bars of the county jail serving time for misdemeanors. When Allen Young was sent to jail yesterday for violating his parole on a charge of theft, the family of mother, father and two sons were reunited behind the prison bars. The youngest son, George Young, was sent to jail one month ago for the theft of copper wire. His brother, Allen, was paroled because of the fact that his wife was an expectant mother. George stepped out of Green Bay reformatory on a charge of theft, and there was little sympathy for him. Two weeks ago the mother of the boys, Eva Crony, who had remarried, and was subsequently divorced, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Yesterday Pare O. Purcell turned Allen over to the court for violating his parole.

Attorney General Gives Opinion That
It Is Duty of District Attorney to Prosecute in Case of Violation.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Madison, March 9.—That it is the duty of a district attorney to prosecute a person on a bond of a saloon keeper who has violated the law, is the opinion of Attorney General Owen to disprove the charges against the district attorney of Portage county today.

The district attorney desired to know whether it was the duty of the attorney general or the district attorney to make the prosecution. The saloon keeper referred to had a license revoked for selling liquor to a minor.

In an opinion to M. K. Skinner of Portage, the attorney general held that the personage of the Methodist Episcopal church was exempt from taxation unless it was rented for pecuniary purposes.

The same letter pointed out that the Mascenic Lodge halls and the I. O. O. F. halls were no longer subject to taxation, having been exempted by the last session of the legislature. The opinion holds, however, that assessments made upon this property for 1916, before the law was passed, are valid and must be collected.

Schmitz Not a Candidate. "I take this opportunity to thank my many sincere friends for their loyal support so generously offered and extended, and for the many expressions of sympathy and encouragement without solicitation or request."

Judge Eschweiler's decision to make the run for the bench was given verbally to friends and his supporters said last night that he would have no formal statement. Judge Eschweiler's term expires in January, 1917.

In view of the sudden showing of partisan feeling of which Goff, in the present judicial contest, as striking as it is rare in the judicial realm, remains a candidate for the office of justice of the supreme court.

"I have always felt that the supreme court should be above party contests of any nature and that its members should be chosen independently of political considerations. I trust before this contest is ended, a saner view may find recognition and that the principle of the non-partisan judiciary responsible in the past for the incomparable standing and learning of the supreme court of Wisconsin, may yet prevail. Therefore, endeavoring to stand on a high plane, I shall not engage in a polemic contest for a seat on the supreme bench."

Paris Announcement Claims That At-

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Berlin, March 9.—The village and armored fort at Vaux, northeast of Verdun, has been captured by Germans, the war office announced today. Several adjoining forts were taken in the fight.

French Repulse Attack. Paris, via London, March 9.—On the Verdun sector west of the Meuse the French have repulsed repeated attacks on the village of Bethincourt, according to semi-official statement made here today.

The official statement published last night has done much to relieve the tension which has been caused in the public mind by expectation of a great onslaught on the main front. French defenses on the west bank of the Meuse.

Press and public are now more than ever convinced that the Germans will not be able to take Verdun.

French Theory of Attack. Military observers expressed the belief that the Germans originally intended a frontal attack on Verdun, which was to be accomplished by two flank attacks, one in the Woerwe meant to be pushed home, and the other on the west bank of the Meuse, which might develop into the main attack. Desiring, however, to justify a premature announcement of the capture of Douaumont, the Crown Prince sent 20,000 men on the right bank of the river, against advice of his generals, who insisted they could be better employed on the other bank.

Now that the Germans have begun the flank attack, the French claim it is too late by ten days.

Many sectors of the French front on Sunday and Monday last received an average of 100,000 shells in twelve hours. Whole woods were reduced to kindling material.

Terrific Artillery Fire. The little river at Forges disappeared altogether, having been dammed in half a dozen places, and thirty feet of the crest of Hill 213, near Forges, was blown away.

The attack on Bethincourt made on Tuesday was preceded by hours' terrific bombardment. The infantry came on from three sides, along the road from Geroucourt to Bethincourt, from the village and from the slope of Hill 255. French officers estimate that the attacking forces were not fewer than 20,000.

SOLDIERS ATTACKED
LUTHERAN MINISTER

Suspend Sentence on Two Canadians
Who Dragged Pastor, an American Citizen, From His Home.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Berlin, Ontario, March 9.—Sentence had been suspended on the two soldiers who, with others, recently broke into the home of the Rev. R. O. Tappert, pastor of Mt. Matthew's Lutheran church, and dragged him to the street. Mr. Tappert says he is an American citizen, and a protest against his treatment at the hands of the soldiers has been filed by the American consul at Hamilton.

At the trial Mr. Tappert said that when the soldiers came to his home, he looked out the door, fearing violence. The door was broken open and the minister refused to accompany the soldiers to the street, he was carried into the street by the heels and head. Mr. Tappert said he was repeatedly kicked.

The two soldiers, Sergeant Major Blood and Private Schaefer, admitted that the minister's story was substantially true, and the former sought to justify their action by saying Mr. Tappert had shown by his utterances that he was an enemy of the British empire.

The crown attorney was not present when the two men were brought before a magistrate for sentence. In releasing them on suspended sentence the court said he assumed he was doing so with the consent of the crown.

Inquire and Acquire

That's an old stock market adage that applies very well to advertising.

If you are a manufacturer seeking to market your product, inquire what sort of advertising your distributors prefer. Inquire what sort of advertising sends customers directly to their stores and moves the goods from their shelves.

These men know—and their co-operation is not only useful to the advertiser.

Your inquiries will bring you facts about newspapers and open the gateway to acquiring profits.

A preliminary inquiry to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York, will be cheerfully answered.

SUMMER CLUB HOLDS MID-WINTER MEETING

CLUB WOMEN FROM ALL PARTS OF COUNTY ATTEND SESSIONS WEDNESDAY AND TODAY.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED

Mrs. T. C. Dunn of Milton Is Elected President and Mrs. Morse Vice-President. Good Program Enjoyed.

A large attendance and an enthusiastic spirit of loyalty showed the interest felt by club women in the Summer club meetings held yesterday at the city hall. It might almost be called "Women's Day" from the many out of town members who came to Janesville to attend the sessions. The whole upper floor of the city hall was thrown open for their comfort. The old council chamber not used at present for that purpose, was utilized for a cloak room. And within its sacred precincts were the former city aldermen were accustomed to transact business and listen to flights of forensic oratory. Groups of club women gathered to discuss city matters and chat together concerning the affairs in which they were interested.

The opening session was a business meeting called to order at ten o'clock in the assembly room of the city hall. In the absence of Mrs. J. Campbell, the president who was unavoidably detained, Mrs. Helms was elected president pro tempore. The reports of committee were called for. The nominating committee through the chairman, Mrs. George Rummel gave its report and the election of officers resulted in the following list:

President—Mrs. T. C. Dunn, Milton.
Vice President—Mrs. Lyman Morse, Janesville.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. W. W. Clark, Milton.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. O. D. Bates, Janesville.
Treasurer—Miss Helen Welch, Janesville.
Auditor—Mrs. J. R. Whiffen, Janesville.

The report of the program committee through the chairman, Mrs. R. W. Fisher, stated that the June picnic would be held at Emerald Grove, one meeting to be held at Milton, one at Janesville, and the place of the other to be determined later. The dates of each will be given in the year book.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. Lyman Morse, was given showing the number of old members to be on the list of new ones, being twenty-two up to the present time. The treasurer, Mrs. A. C. Campbell, gave an account of the money taken in showing that the sum of $47.25 had been collected and $27.33 paid out, leaving a balance of $19.92.

A report of the philanthropic department of the club's work was prepared by Miss Eleanor King and was read by Miss Helen Welch. It showed that thirty-three children were brought out from Chicago tenement districts and given a two week outing in the homes and on the farms of Rock county. She spoke of the royal welcome given to the little folks in Janesville, of the complimentary theatre party they enjoyed, their picnic, with its treat of ice cream and fruit, furnished by interested friends, and the new clothing, shoes and hats given to the girls. The wearing apparel which was provided to make them happy and comfortable. In connection with this matter it was mentioned that the regular appropriation of $25 was made from the club treasury to aid this project, and also before the meeting acquired a collection was taken up for the same purpose, with a result of about $15.

Three new members were voted in to the club membership: Mrs. Cora Drew and Mrs. Percy Munger of Janesville, and Miss Elizabeth Steele of Milton. A vote of thanks was given to the city council for the use of the rooms, to C. W. Diehls for the loan of a Victrola, to the Electric company for the installation of an electric stove, to the Janesville Spice company for a gift of tea, and to the National Biscuit company for a generous donation of their products in their most delicious varieties. An appetizing luncheon was served at the Presbyterian church at the noon hour and proved most enjoyable.

The afternoon meeting was called at two o'clock with a short business session. A notice of adjournment to the constitution, to be voted on at the next meeting, was read. It provided that the annual dues of the club be made thirty-five cents instead of the present sum of twenty-five cents.

A list of delegates to the district federation, to be held in Delavan, April 25th and 26th, was acted as follows: Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Elsie of Milton, Miss Paterson, Miss Helen Welch and Mrs. Rummel of Janesville. The same number of alternates was also elected and the president of the club was empowered to fill vacancies. A motion was passed that the picnic dinner in Janesville be furnished by contributions from the sale of dinner tickets be donated to assist the rest room project of Janesville.

The afternoon program opened with an informal talk by Mrs. Anna Meredith of Eagle, on the topic, "The Rural Women." Mrs. Meredith moved in team work and deplored the Taking Tonics, and Built up on Right Food.

The mistake is frequently made of trying to build up a worn-out nervous system on so-called tonics.

New material from which to rebuild used up tissue cells is what should be supplied, and this can be obtained only from proper food.

"I found myself on the verge of a nervous collapse, due to overwork and study, and to illness in the family," writes a Wisconsin woman.

"My friends became alarmed because I grew pale and thin and could not sleep nights. I took various tonics, but their effects were of short-lived after I stopped taking them. My food did not seem to nourish me.

"Reading of Grape-Nuts, I determined to stop the tonics and see what a change of diet would do. I ate Grape-Nuts four times a day with cream, and drank milk also, went to bed early after eating a dish of Grape-Nuts.

"In about two weeks I was sleeping soundly. In a short time gained weight and felt like a different woman. Grape-Nuts and fresh air were the only agents used to accomplish the happy results."

fact that women were not trained for their life work. She also urged the study of child welfare as being an especially appropriate subject for rural clubs.

Mrs. Adda F. Howie was the only woman at the San Francisco exposition in charge of a state exhibit. She is enthusiastic in her praise of Wisconsin and its possibilities as a dairy state, and said that it would benefit the English language to try and depict the wonders of the Panama exposition, which was nominally the subject of her address. She said that Wisconsin produced 33 per cent of all the cheese made in the United States and was also the leading state in all dairy products. She gave many stories and interesting anecdotes of her experiences, and gave a few hints gathered from her own work on a dairy farm, which she organized and is still conducting on a successful business basis.

A social hour was spent after the program when tea and waters were served by Miss Bailey of the domestic science department of the high school and a number of her students.

The afternoon session was a cooking demonstration by Miss Anderson, taking for her subject, "Apples and Easy Ways of Preparing Them." The afternoon topic was an "Egg-beth Kitchen," given by Miss Elsie Beth Kelley. Both of these ladies belong to the extension department of the university and are trained experts in their line of work. The new president, Mrs. Dunn, presided, and a social hour with tea and waters closed the day's exercises.

PRIMARY ELECTION ONLY FOR COUNCIL

Voters to Cast Ballots Only for Councilman at Primary. But Two Contests in the Election.

Under the Wisconsin election laws, passed by the last legislature, the city of Janesville will only vote to choose councilmen at the primary election to be held on March twenty-third. This was announced by J. P. Hammarlund, city clerk, after a conference with Attorney William H. Dougherty this morning.

Under this ruling the voters of Janesville will only ballot for councilman, and the election of supervisors, school commissioners, one justice of the peace and ward constables will take place at the general election on April fourth.

Eight candidates that will be on the primary ballot are: Roy Broeze, 719 Hickory street; Fred A. Cummings, present councilman, 410 North Broadway; William W. Hyzer, 820 Milwaukee avenue; William P. Langdon, 110 South High street; Thomas S. Nolan, 512 Holmes street; John J. Sheridan, 411 South Jackson street; Frank P. Starr, 606 Milton avenue; Charles I. Young, 121 South Academy street. The voters will cast but one vote and the two candidates receiving the largest number of votes will be on the ticket at the general election in April.

At the general election the following officers will probably go on the ticket: Supervisors—H. S. Woodruff, 1st ward; M. P. Richardson, 2nd ward; E. D. McGowan, 3rd ward; J. A. Denning and Emil Peutz, 4th ward, and James Morris, 5th ward.

The race between Denning and Peutz for supervisor in the Fourth ward appears to be the only place where there is to be competition outside of the election of councilman. For constable papers have been filed or are being circulated for J. J. Comstock, 2nd ward; W. E. Dulin, 4th ward; George Palmer, 1st ward, and Al Smith in the 3rd ward.

Papers have been filed nominating Francis Grant or school commissioner from the Second ward, and William Fleming in the Fifth. J. J. Hooper is expected to be a candidate for school commissioner at large. Stanley Tallman, it is reported, will be a candidate to succeed himself as justice of the peace.

The last legislature changed the election statutes for all school, judiciary, and city elective officers are held to be strictly non-partisan and the election of a primary is eliminated, according to the city clerk.

FIRST OF LENTEN MEETINGS TONIGHT

District 13. A. J. Clark, 162 South Academy street.

AGED LADY CELEBRATES NINETY-SIXTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Amanda Broughton of Brodhead, mother of Mrs. Nick Reed of this city, celebrated her ninety-sixth birthday yesterday at the home of her son John, in Brodhead.

She is a very hale and hearty woman, but at the present time she is ill. Just the immediate relatives of the family helped her celebrate her birthday. Many friends were sent to her by friends and one which deserves special mention was a beautiful bouquet of ninety-six carnations.

MUNICIPAL COURT CASES ADJOURNED THIS MORNING

Two cases were adjourned in the municipal court this morning, due to the illness of the attorneys or that they were obliged to appear in cases in the circuit court. The case against Carl Edgerton of Edgerton, charged with night-time burglary, was adjourned to a later date. The decision on the preliminary examination of the young youth, will be put over until the result of the Stanky trial is ascertained.

The case against William O'Donnell, charged with converting the sum of fifteen dollars to his own use, was also held over.

EXPERT ON BABIES WILL GIVE ADDRESS

Mrs. Dora Mendenhall of Madison, Will Lecture at City Hall Friday Afternoon and Evening.

Mrs. Dora Mendenhall of Madison, an expert on babies, will give two lectures on Friday at the city hall as a part of the baby week campaign. She appears under the auspices of the Janesville Civic league.

The first lecture will be given at three o'clock in the afternoon and will be of special interest to young mothers and young women who are urged to attend. It is a lecture on the importance of the trials and problems of motherhood and will have much valuable information and suggestions to impart. An exhibit of baby clothes will be on display by experts who will answer all inquiries as to the proper material to be used in clothing infants.

The evening lecture is open to the general public and the lecture topic will be "Health of a Community." All persons interested in the improvement of city health and sanitation will make it a point to attend.

JOHN CUNNINGHAM HEADS ELKS AGAIN

Unanimously Re-elected Exalted Ruler of the Janesville Lodge B. P. O. E.

John Cunningham was unanimously re-elected Exalted Ruler of the Janesville Lodge 254 B. P. O. E. at the annual election of officers held at the Elks lodge last night.

Following the business of the evening, Chairman Fred Green of the house committee had a tempting luncheon prepared for the members, which was enjoyed thoroughly.

Kidney Trouble Causes Sleeplessness, Dizzy Spells

I have great confidence in your medicine, called Swamp-Root, as I have tested it thoroughly. I had kidney trouble for several years and found no relief, until I took Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. The doctor said my disease was kidney trouble of the worst kind. I had pains in my back, dizzy spells and fever. I had a languid feeling and could not sleep on account of having to urinate so often. The doctors told me that I could not get well, but I am well now and feel better than I ever did. I can sleep well and am not bothered any more with my kidneys. Have never taken a dose of medicine since the last bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. My age is 55 years. Have resided in Darlington 20 years.

Yours very truly, W. A. LEE, 400 W. Broad St., Darlington, S. C.

Personally appeared before me this 8th day of June, 1914, W. A. Lee, who subscribed to the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

P. T. WARD, Magistrate, Darlington County.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Singhamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will do for You.

Send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample size bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

WISCONSIN RETAINS LEAD IN CONFERENCE

Badgers Defeat Maroons 24 to 12, Increasing Prospects for Another Basketball Championship.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, March 9.—By defeating the Chicago Maroons, 24 to 12, here last night, the Badgers, aspirants for the "big nine" title, regained their lead in the Northwestern basketball conference. Wisconsin has but one more game, that being with the Purple at Evanston on Saturday night. A Wisconsin victory over the Purple will mean the fourth basketball championship at Wisconsin in five years.

The game last night was rough throughout, Chicago attempting pushing tactics, believing that such a style of game would hamper the short passing of the Badgers. Page's Maroons were fouled for their rough work only by the Cardinal tossers on, and at the end of the game Wisconsin was going at top speed.

Page had his team canched to meet the Badger attack for Chicago played with five men back all the time. This is the main reason for the low score made. Chicago held the ball for time considerably. A feature of the game was the work of Olson from guard, and the basket tossing of Captain Mel Haas. Lewis was held to two baskets by Rothmell, the midget guard.

Smith at guard, and Lewis and Captain Haas at forwards, played their last home game for Wisconsin. Wisconsin was never in danger last night, and the rough play at times slowed up the game, keeping the score down. Wisconsin outplayed Chicago at every stage. The lineup and score follows:

Chandler 2, Olson 2, George 1, Rothmell 1, Shafer 2, Norgren 1, Townley 1.
Attendance—1,000.
Referee—Diddle, Washburn.

Red booklets dedicated to the basketball strategists, Doc Meanwell, were handed out before and during the game last night. These booklets contain the enviable record held by Wisconsin in basketball, and also gives a short history of basketball. Between halves the Badger gymnastic team performed thrilling feats on the mats.

Northwestern Feared.
The Purple is the one team that is feared by Wisconsin. Meanwell says his team will win, but his voice cracks and carries with it a pessimistic tone. If Wisconsin loses, the "big nine" title will be held by Northwestern and the Badgers, a tie resulting. A victory will mean a mammoth celebration at Madison. While students have had no opportunity to purchase seats for the game, owing to the fact that Northwestern University failed to send a block of seats to Madison, a big delegation is planning to attend the championship conflict.

DECLARED PROFESSIONALS BECAUSE THEY TOOK A TEST FOR JOBS AS LIFESAVERS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Chicago, March 9.—Because they swam two lengths of a sixty foot tank in addition to diving and bringing up a sandbag, to pass a civic service examination to get jobs as lifesavers at swimming beaches here, a central amateur athletic committee here ruled that Walter Farrell, Hobart Olson, Charley Pavlick and Lloyd Neff are professionals and barred them from amateur meets. All four men are crack swimmers. They have appealed to the national body in New York.

Edouard Fabre of Montreal, the great marathon runner who won the Panama-Pacific exposition race and also the Boston A. A. event, as well as many other long distance events, has joined the colors and will go to the war.

K. C. BOWLERS WIN FROM BELOIT TEAM

Local Lodge Team Has Easy Time With Beloit Lodge Five—Other Games Rolled.

Janesville K. C. bowlers had an easy time with the Line City team last night in a match game at the Miller alleys. In all three events the local lodge team had the shake on the visitors. Huebel rolled the high score, knocking down 201 pins. Hayes followed close with an even two hundred. In the local league the Magellans lost to the Columbus team and the Balboas won from the DeLeons by only three pins.

Cubs Win.
Miller's Cubs won from the Peerless five last night in an exciting game. The Peerless bunch fell down in the last event, which lost the game for them.

West Side Alleys.
Tonight at the Miller alleys the Cronin five won from the Myers Hotel team in a poorly rolled game. In another game the Carpenters lost to the Painters.

STATE MAKES INQUIRY INTO WILLARD FIGHT

State Commission Interrogate Tex Rickard, Promoter of Willard-Moran Fight to Safeguard Public.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
New York, March 9.—The state athletic commission today interrogated Tex Rickard, promoter of the Willard-Moran bout, and Secretary Edwards and Manager James J. Johnston of the show corporation, under whose auspices the bout will be staged.

Chairman Wenck said the purpose of the inquiry was to arrive at some definite arrangement whereby every precaution would be taken to safeguard and protect the interest of the public. He said in case either or both principals were to threaten or absent himself or make some objection to the details, he would advise principal until after the bout.

It was finally agreed that all ticket receipts, the purse and the forfeits should be placed with a stakeholder amenable to the commissioners, and acceptable to the promoters and managers, who should pay out no money until after the fight had taken place and all contract conditions had been faithfully performed.

During the discussion it developed that the purse had been increased from $70,000 to $71,250, of which Willard is to receive $47,500, while half that sum, $23,250, is to be paid to Moran. Rickard explained that he had increased the amount, because he believed Moran should get at least half as much as the champion.

Y. M. C. A. LOSES TO DELAVAN FIVE 22-16

Delavan Basketball Team Win From Locals In Fast Game Last Night at the "Y."

Delavan Y. M. C. A. basketball players won from the local "Y" team last night at the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 22 to 16. The visitors had a well organized team and showed signs of having played together more. Fifeid, a former high school athlete, was the mainstay of his team in the scoring and in the teamwork. He found the goal five times from the field and twice out of four times on free throws.

The local players were poor on passing the ball and on shooting. Jones was the main scorer with four to his credit. Koch was in all the floor work but failed to score. Following are the scores and lineups:

Delavan: Fifeid, center; Booth, forward; Jones, center; Booth, Dennett and Slaker, guards.

Referee—Keck, Janesville. Harper, scorer.

WITHINGTON MAY GET JOB HELD BY EHRLER AT VARSITY.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., March 9.—It is expected that when the finance committee of the board of regents of the state university meets today they will be presented with the resignation of George W. Ehler, athletic director of the University of Wisconsin.

A merry little scrap between Ehler and the board of regents has been in progress during the past week over whether or not the athletic head has been asked to resign.

Information coming from "inspired" sources, was that Ehler had not only been asked to resign but that he had complied with the request. Ehler denied this. It is believed that the plan of the board eventually is to turn Ehler's work over to Paul Withington, newly appointed head football coach.

In the meantime his work will fall to T. E. Jones, track coach. Ehler has never made a hit with the Wisconsin students.

MCARTHUR WILL RECEIVE BASKETBALL "B" AT BELOIT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Beloit, Wis., March 9.—Glenne B. McArthur of Janesville, for two years center and forward on the Beloit college basketball team, is one of the six players who will be awarded "B" this year. He has been in a majority of Beloit's games this year, playing in all positions in Stegeman's frequent shakeups of the team's organization, although the Janesville star has been mostly used as forward.

McArthur played his first year of varsity basketball last season, starring at center.

MORRIS MILLER

Ty Cobb will be the highest salaried player in baseball the coming season. Because of his loyalty to organized baseball during the recent battle with the Federal Government, he will continue to draw the $15,000 during the coming season, when he completes his three-year contract at that figure. This Speaker drew $15,000 during the season of 1914 and 1915, but he just signed for half that amount. The chances are that if Cobb plays as well next season as he did last he will continue at his present salary. Speaker threatened to leap to the Reds unless his demands were acceded to by the Red Sox, but Cobb never made any effort to desert the Detroit club and as a result he is to be rewarded.

Some few years ago Connie Mack made the statement that the teams of Washington and St. Louis were handicapped by the hot weather in these cities. Fielder Jones, however, will not listen to any alibi from his players this year when they complain about the climate. He contends that players are better off in a real hot climate than in a changeable one, provided they take good care of themselves and find a cool place to sleep. Jones' team came very near winning the Federal league pennant last season, and he did not think the climate was a handicap to his athletes. Here is what Jones has to say on the subject: "Give me the players who have the heart to get out there and play every day and I'll win a pennant on the Sahara desert."

Other fellows and some shut-out pitching, along with some errors on our side, will beat us this summer at Sportsman's Park, but the first fellow who comes to me with an excuse that it's hot will sit on the bench for a week, and he won't draw any pay, either."

Cy Young will have a provenge with the pitching staff of the Cincinnati team the coming season. His name is Stanley Dougan. Dougan was coached by old Cy before making his professional career, which he started in the Northern league. As a pitcher for Winnipeg he won twenty-two games, two of which were no-hit affairs, and he was charged with only four defeats. He is a left-hander and stands six feet one inch high. This runner, undoubtedly gives great hope, and should prove a reliable running mate for Fred Toney, who was one of the best pitchers in the National league last season.

"If you want to get some real batting in the major leagues," says Heinie Groh, "let them pass a law—or, rather, enforce existing laws—concerning the altitude of pitching hills. If I am not mistaken, there was a rule passed, some sundry seasons since, limiting the height to which any club could hoist the pitcher's mound. Why isn't that rule enforced any longer? I got real inquisitive about these things last season, and made it a point to estimate the height of the pitching hills in the various burls. In some of them the hill was only two feet high; in others it had been most artistically built up, and in places, the tremendous altitude of the mound was nearly masked by landscape gardening, or by arranging the slopes, every direction so that they didn't look nearly so lofty as was the actual truth. Worst of all, I think, was the hill at St. Louis."

The Reds have received their first hard-luck wallop of the season, and the membership of the crowd, which will gather at Shreveport has already been reduced. Jimmy Esmond, the clever infielder, is seriously ill at Savannah, Ga., complications following an attack of grip. It will be several weeks before Esmond can join the team, and he may not be in fit playing condition before midsummer.

Christy Mathewson took his first workout, under the supervision of Manager McGraw, at Marlin Springs, Tex., the other day, and favorable reports have been sent out as a result. Matty, however, refuses to express an opinion as to whether he will be able to pitch this year. He says it will take some time for him to be able to tell whether he will be able to stand the training, notwithstanding the fact that he is his left shoulder which gives him all the trouble and caused him to encounter the worst season of his career in the last campaign. It is needless to say that McGraw will give Matty every attention for the Giants' chances will be slim, indeed, this year if he should not come through.

Federal contracts are not the only things hard to dispose of. The New York Yankees are trying to get somebody to take Ed Sweeney and his Manager McGraw has taken on another career, much publicity as if it were William Cole, who played with the White Sox of Cleveland, the amateur champions of the universe last year.

According to Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants, the New York club has a contract with Kauff for 1916, 1917 and 1918, "and we expect him to report to Manager McGraw next Sunday night. As far as I know Kauff has no grievance. He wants to play ball with the Giants, and "ou can say that he will be fairly treated." Kauff declared in January that he would not report to McGraw unless he received $5,000 in addition from the Giants and at least a similar amount from Sinclair. But Benny probably has changed his mind about this.

Though the Willard-Moran battle is to be of but ten rounds' duration, it is getting as much publicity as if it were to be a finish fight. It is, of course, of interest to those who follow the flistic sport in New York to get a glimpse at Willard in action. He has not appeared there since his victory over Jack Johnson, and there is another element which wants to be present when a comparatively little fellow like Moran puts it over on the champion.

That the battle on March 25 will prove a big financial success there is not the slightest doubt. The boxing commission is taking every precaution to make the bout a square one, and Charley White, who will act as referee, will see to it that the men put forth their best efforts in every one of the rounds, or there won't be any purse paid and the public will be handed back its money. The commission will be in absolute control, and everything is to be regular so that the sport will not suffer by any hipodroming or manipulation.

Before departing from St. Louis the other day for the sunny south, Miller Huggins, leader of the Cardinals, had a few words to say about the coming National league scrap. In Huggins' opinion the Boston Braves are going to cop the flag this season. New York according to Huggins' way of figuring, will be the dark horse in the coming race.

GAS ENGINE PLANT ERECTION TO START ON MONDAY MORNING

Active Building Will Commence With Excavations for Foundation.—
Four Concrete Foundations.
The first spadeful of dirt inaugurating active construction on Janesville's new co-operative industrial acquisition will be turned Monday morning, bright and early. From then on, erection preparations for the building of the Janesville Tractor company will continue unabated.
The work of excavating for the foundations is expected to consume about a day and a half. The forms for the cement will be placed and the foundation poured on Wednesday, according to the announced schedule. It will be almost a week before the foundation has set, but from then on erection is expected to go forward at a rapid pace.
At the present time there is a demand for actual labor and those interested in seeing the project a success and who can devote a day or more spare time in the early operations are again urged to inform members of the committee. W. R. Hayes, Joseph Deuninger and Ford Boos and Schoor are listing these laborers.
There will be little work for teams during the first week or eight days, as was announced today. After this period, however, it is expected that teams will be used to good advantage in material hauling and other lines.

IRA DORN TO LEAVE COUNTY FOR GOOD

Both for His Own and the County.—
Judge Grimm Disposes of Case in Circuit Court This Afternoon.
Ira Dorn, in the Rock County circuit court, before Judge George Grimm this afternoon, pleaded guilty to the charge of being an inmate of a disorderly house. Judge Grimm imposed a sentence of twenty-five dollars and the stipulation that, providing the fine was paid and that Dorn agreed to leave the county permanently after 10 p. m. Saturday, he would have his liberty. Dorn, however, refused to pay the fine and the court ordered that he be committed to the county jail for thirty days. Dorn, who is a resident of Janesville, was arrested by Stanley Hill and taken to the jail on Monday morning several weeks ago in a house on North river street.

GRIMM GETS RESULTS IN SETTLEMENT PLEA FOR ALL JURY CASES

Eliminating Need of Jury Trials Through Agreements Reached With Attorneys on Eight Cases.
Rock County's March term of circuit court closed this afternoon at 2:25 o'clock when Judge George Grimm succeeded in securing the eighth settlement in cases originally listed for jury trials. The present term is significant in many ways, being the shortest term in the history of the county, requiring the least number of cases listed on the calendar of its opening, sets a record in the number of cases settled without jury trials and in the matter of costs is approximately seventy-five per cent less than any previous term of even the shortest number of days taken to dispose of the calendar. The present term opened Tuesday morning and closed this afternoon, three days at the most.
The last case occupying the attention of Judge Grimm this afternoon was that of George A. Miller versus E. M. Carpenter, a suit involving a real estate commission. Rosa and Christensen of Beloit and E. H. Peterson and E. H. Ryan of this city were the counsel. Judge Grimm thought that settlement could be reached without the calling of a jury and trial and as a result met the contending attorneys with hopes of the settlement. He got it without court trial or jury.
Although a jury was called this morning in the case of Walter Pastors versus Dale, a personal injury damage action in which the plaintiff sued for $7,000, Judge Grimm brought about a settlement and the jury was excused by this a second morning. The father of Walter Pastors, the father of W. W. Dale, was also eliminated from the calendar.
But one case came before a jury. This was the typical case of Sophia Knutson against Willard Austin and upon the defendant's attorney's plea for dismissal and the non-suit decision of Judge Grimm the jury was excused.

VILLA BANDIT GANG RAIDS BORDER TOWN

Bandits Seen at Douglas.
Douglas, Ariz. March 9.—Eight hundred Mexican bandits passed through Douglas, New Mexico, the first station west of Columbus, early today and were headed toward Hachita, New Mexico, according to a message received here from the dispatcher of the El Paso and Southwestern railroad at Hachita. No further details have yet been received.
Report at El Paso.
El Paso, March 9.—Five American soldiers were killed this morning early at Columbus, N. M. in a battle with Mexican bandits, according to a message received early today at the general offices of the El Paso & Southwestern railroad in El Paso. The pumper for the railroad at Columbus was wounded and his wife killed, this same message stated. The bandits attacked the town shortly after midnight, according to railroad officials, and set fire to many buildings. The American soldiers died upon them and the battle followed.

AMOS CRANDALL DIES AT MILTON JUNCTION

Resident of Rock County for Seventy-eight Years Succumbs Early Today at Son's Home.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Milton Junction, March 9.—Amos Crandall, a resident of Rock County for seventy-eight years, passed away this morning at the home of his son, George Amos Crandall, in this village. Death followed an illness of several weeks, although his health has been failing for several years. He was 98 years of age on January 1st.
Mr. Crandall was born in Alfred, New York, in 1823. When a boy of fifteen years he came west with his parents and located on a farm in the northeastern part of the county. This region was then a virgin prairie with few white settlements. A log cabin or two stood on the present site of the city of Janesville and Indians were numerous.
Mr. Crandall remained on his farm until several years ago when he retired and took up his residence at this place. His wife died about one year ago. He is survived by his son and several grandchildren. Funeral announcement will be made later.

Daniel Kiehl, who was taken to Mercy hospital yesterday morning after a hemorrhage in the stomach, passed away at the hospital yesterday afternoon. Mr. Kiehl is reputed to be wealthy, to the extent of $75,000 and $100,000. He owns extensive farm property in the vicinity of Sharon, where relatives this morning took the remains for interment. Mr. Kiehl was suffering with a shock to his system and pneumonia when removed to the hospital.
Henry E. Fletcher.
Mrs. John Manning of Milton avenue has been informed of the death of Henry E. Fletcher, a prominent Minneapolis business man at Old Point Comfort, Va., where he had gone to recuperate after an operation. Mr. Fletcher was the husband of a cousin of Mrs. Manning and the announcement of his death, following that of his wife a short time ago, comes as a shock to his friends and relatives. Mrs. Manning had recently received a most cordial letter from him and knew nothing of his illness until notified of his death. He was one of the most prominent business men, being interested in both lumber and milling companies.

Rodney Arland Kapke.
Rodney Arland Kapke, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kapke, passed away at the family home at 515 Cornelia street, about 7:30 o'clock this morning. The funeral will be held at the home tomorrow morning and will be private.

John Annas.
The remains of John Annas, who died at Columbus, will be brought here tomorrow afternoon and will be buried at Olivet cemetery. Mr. Annas was the husband of Mary Annas of Footville. He was a traveling man and was well known in Janesville.

Mabel Belle Osgood.
Funeral services for the little Mabel Belle, the eighty-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Osgood, of 415 Caroline street, were held in Olivet cemetery this afternoon after services at the home of the Rev. C. Hazen, officiating. The pallbearers and flower girls were former school associates of Mabel Belle. The bearers of her coffin were: Roscoe Korn, Roland and Adam Gridley and Cyril Smidley. Gladys Little, Irene and Wayne Grundy and Clara Richards were her flower girls.

Rockford comes sure Sat. night.

Correction: Matthew Ryan and Martin Kennedy will attend the Marquette school of pharmacy instead of the school of embalming as was stated in last night's paper through a typographical error. Edward J. Ryan will attend the school of embalming.
Mothers' Meeting: The mothers' committee of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tomorrow afternoon with the Ladies' Auxiliary. All members are requested to be present.

Ladies free tonight and Sunday.

GOOD PLAY FOR ST. PATRICK'S NIGHT

Ancient Order of Hibernians and Ladies' Auxiliary will put on "All of A Sudden Peggy", a laughable farce, at Myers Theater.

New Meat Market

I wish to announce, to the public and my patrons, the opening of a New Meat Department in connection with my grocery business.
I will give the same high quality at low prices in this new department that have always been given to my grocery customers.
I have secured the services of Mr. John Raubacher to conduct this department and it will prove a welcome addition to the meat business of Janesville.
The new Meat Department will be opened for business tomorrow.
Watch for further announcements.

BABY DISPLAY FRIDAY AT THE CITY HALL

As a culmination of Baby Week carry on a nation-wide Baby Campaign during the week commencing March 4th.

The local bureau, in charge of Mrs. Percy Munger, Mrs. J. R. Nichols and Miss Mary Barker, have secured Mrs. Dr. Mendenhall of Madison to give a talk at the city hall on Friday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Mendenhall is a trained physician and was formerly the nurse in charge of an eastern hospital. She is quite an authority on baby welfare and for her afternoon address she will talk to the young mothers on "How to Save the Babies", at 3 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock in the evening she will give a lecture on "The Health of a community," to which everyone is invited.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME...

Copyright 1916 by Frank H. Spearman.

Lug lowered himself down the side of the car. Inside, Helen was reading quietly when Lug's hand, holding a handkerchief saturated with chloroform, was thrust through the window and despite her struggles Helen soon was overpowered.

With a quick word to Bill, above, Lug scrambled into the car. He placed Helen, now unconscious, in a sitting position and ran to the blind end to look for the machine. It had overhauled the train and was speeding beside it along the highway. Lug waved to the driver to come on. Returning to the car, he motioned to Bill to help him carry Helen out. The two men picked her up and took her to the platform. How to transfer her to the motorcar was a problem that might have given pause to more clever men. Lug intended at first to throw the helpless girl from the platform into the machine, but this he discovered would never do—the distance was too great. Bill, an old sailor, came to the rescue with another arrangement. In a jiffy he had lashed Helen into a kind of cradle in the middle of the long rope, and, throwing one end to the driver, shouted to him to make it fast. The latter, when he caught the line, hitched it to the side of his car, and with the motor and the train still at high speed, Lug, on the rope, went hand over hand down to the motorcar. Loosening the hitch, he then drew in the rope, while Bill, on the platform, carefully paid out and Helen was transferred, uninjured, from the train to the machine.

Once within the motorcar, Helen was unconsciously dropped to the bottom and left there, while the machine was turned around and her captors whisked back for Las Vegas with her.

Storm, by this time, had left the construction camp and was waiting at Baird for the train bearing Helen. The train drew in and stopped. To Storm's surprise and disappointment, not a solitary passenger got off. He accosted the conductor: "Helen Holmes was coming up today. Where is she?"

The conductor looked down the platform. "She certainly was on the train," he declared, puzzled. "I saw her just before we got to Arden."

Storm, the trainman following, walked hastily through the coaches. Helen was not to be found. A freight train going to Las Vegas was standing on the passenger track. Storm ran to the caboose and explained his anxiety to the train crew, who were prompt to make ready to aid him. They pulled out with Storm in the cab to scan the right of way.

In Seagrue's machine Lug and Bill opened Helen's satchel. They found a big package of letters, and believed they had in them the contracts.

Helen, in the rush of cold air, had begun to revive. As a precaution to prevent her giving any alarm—though machines were sufficiently scarce on the desert—Lug took Helen's handkerchief from her satchel, tied it roughly over her mouth, laid her on the seat, cautioned her harshly and covered her with a steamer rug.

Traveling at a breakneck pace over the broad expanse of sand, the car was entering Las Vegas, when, crossing one of the village streets without lessening speed, the driver almost knocked a man down. Indeed, but for a smart jump, the pedestrian would have been killed. He turned with a suppressed curse and looked angrily after the car that had so nearly struck him. The occupants he did not recognize; they shot by too fast. But a handkerchief had chanced to fall from the car at his feet. Spike never neglected investigating anything that fell in his way. He picked the handkerchief up and walked on, still at intervals looking back.

Seagrue was in his rooms, waiting impatiently for the return of the car. When it did at last skid wildly around the corner traveling at a reckless pace, Seagrue ran downstairs and hurried the men to get Helen quickly inside. Spike at this juncture was crossing a vacant lot. He looked again at the handkerchief in his hand, and his eyes turned once more in the direction of the machine. He saw that the party had stopped before a building appearing to Spike's eyes somewhat familiar. The next moment the men lifted what seemed a heavy burden from the machine. Helen had been gagged again and was helpless. But despite her being wrapped in the rug, Spike got from what he saw, the whole story—they had Helen. A sudden rage stirred him, and, throwing caution to the winds, he dashed across the open lot toward the alley.

In spite of these vast improvements, if put in force, the baseball fan won't be able to notice even a flicker of change in his favorite pastime. They are all right in themselves, but extremely inconsequential by the fans and cardinals of the legislators. There is considerable excuse for that, of course, as the winter has been pretty full of endeavor to restore baseball to a peace basis after the two year upheaval caused by the Federal league.

OUT OF THE RACE

When a person wakes up with a stiff back, has pains in muscles, aches in his joints, or has rheumatic twinges, he lacks ambition and energy and cannot do his best. If you feel out of the race, tired and languid, or have other symptoms of kidney trouble, you should get promptly. Foley Kidney Pills help the kidneys to do their work and get out of the system the poisonous waste matter that causes so much trouble. They give relief from sleep-disturbing bladder disturbances. W. T. Sherer.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

That Harry Sinclair did not break even in his Federal league venture, but practically lost $50,000, is the opinion of Joe Villa of the New York Evening Sun, who presents the following figures to substantiate his claim: "When the Reds made peace with organized baseball, Sinclair made the magnates believe that he would buy a ball club. But several insiders predicted that Sinclair wouldn't invest a dollar in baseball property and that he'd quit as soon as he had sold enough Fed players to cover his losses. Sinclair dropped $120,000 in his Newark venture. He burned up $50,000 in keeping other Fed clubs alive. He received $65,000 from the Giants for Kauff, Rariden, Anderson and Rousch; $22,500 from the Yankees for Magee; also $15,000 from the same club for Conlon and Cedeo; $7,500 from the Reds for G. Anderson and Hubn; $5,000 from the Cubs for Seaton and Moran; total, $120,000. From all accounts, therefore, Sinclair will pocket a loss of about $50,000, which is the price of a sad experience. The oil man, according to baseball men, will make a more bids for major league franchises."

This error has been of greater effect in locating second base, which is supposed to be 127.2739 feet from the home plate and ninety feet from first base, as well as ninety feet from third base. Some geographers have tried to locate it 63.6394 feet from the pitcher's slab, as they mistook the official prescription, and consequently have been unable to fix it so that it would be equidistant—thirty yards—from first and third bases. All this is to be corrected by officially stamped, sealed, and delivered surveys of major league diamonds this year, so everything is bound to be just perfectly lovely.

Clark Griffith has a real kick coming on that deal whereby Joe Gedeon goes to the New York club. Griffith figures Gedeon cost the Nationals $7,000. That's based on the original investment of $8,500, his salary while with Washington and that part of his salary the Nationals paid the Salt Lake club and also $800 for an option on his services for 1916. Then Gedeon huddled to the Reds, who obtained him for practically nothing and realized $5,000 profit by selling him to New York, which assumes his three-year contract. It does seem that in a case of this kind, where the player actually played with the Reds, the Washington club should have had some protection in the peace agreement.

Felder Jones, who will guide the destiny of the Browns this year, will be well fortified with outfielders, for in addition to Campbell he has now under contract Jack Tobin, Armando Marsans, Bert Shorten, Clarence Walker and George Sisler. Tobin and Marsans played with the St. Louis Reds last season.

Jess Willard isn't worrying about the gloves that he is to wear the right he uses. Frank Moran, who will have his made by Sol Levison of San Francisco. Sol has made gloves for all the great kings of the Queensberry realm. Moran is a patient of his as well as Willard. The latter will have two pairs sent him as a precautionary measure, in case accident breaks one glove of the set. Levison keeps every man's measure on file, so that a warrior could order a set sent to the Nite without the necessity of making the trip back to California for a try on.

About the Braves, the leader of the Cardinals has this to say: "The Braves are an improved club over last season. Allen and Kneizer should give Stallings more pitching. All, however, depends upon John Evers. He's the winning factor. Put him in 135 games and the Braves will win."

Jimmy Austin, the scrappy third baseman of the St. Louis Browns, may quit the diamond to become secretary of the Buffalo club of the International league. Thomas J. Martin, who has acted in the capacity of business manager of the Browns for the last twenty years, handed in his resignation the other day, and immediately after President Simon wired Jimmy and asked him if he would take the job.

The loss of Melman, Corban and Schmidt will make a great gap in the San Francisco machine. Owner Berry is optimistic and declares that the Seals will be even stronger than they were in 1915. The addition of major and Federal league stars will enable the Seals to plug up the weak spots, according to Berry.

Jack Compton, the veteran pitcher and former manager of the Dayton Central league team, has been given his unconditional release. Compton still is a high class minor league twirler, but it was deemed advisable to release him rather than have him serve under New, the Soldiers' new manager.

Out of nine starts last season, Carl Weiland beat the Detroit eight times, but so far Boston fans have tendered no banquet to the left-hander.

Joe Casey, former backstop of the Detroit Tigers and later in the minors, has sued an automobilist in Saugus, Conn., for $10,000 damages for personal injuries. The automobilist ran Casey down and broke his leg. Joe never was very good at getting out of the way of things.

Little Baldemero Acosta, passes out of the majors the Washington club having transferred him to Minneapolis. Never much of a ball player, he was one of the most charming of gentlemen and as pretty as a picture and a lot of American league fans and fanettes will regret his going.

Beals Becker, the outfielder, is trying to land a job with the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast league. Frank Chance is the manager of this club and Becker has chat with the "Peerless Leader" the other day. "Chance will likely give Beale an opportunity to make good."

George Stellas, a Chicago pitcher signed by the White Sox, was pitched out of nineteen games he pitched for a semi-pro team in 1915. The Boston National league players are to be denied the company of their wives, on the spring training trip this year, according to a letter sent to each member of the team, over the signature of Manager George T. Stallings.

Football referees will have the toughest season of awarding touchdowns on a certain fracture of the rules. This ought to be boon to some of the light scoring teams. Bill Donovan's boys are already pounding out homers down in Macon, but March circuit punches don't boost a team into a certain series held in October.

Scene from "As Years Roll On," featuring "Golden-voiced" Al. H. Wilson, at Myers Theatre, Tuesday, March 14.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Miss Winnifred Greenwood, who appears as "Elsa Dean" in "The Happy Masquerader," a feature just released, does not believe that, in real life, marrying a man to reform him is a safe venture. She says, instead, "If you love the man and he needs reforming, do it before you marry him," and she thinks this reformation can be accomplished. In her role in this play she has a chance to demonstrate her theory, and to prove that "happiness lies within," that it is not a question of money and luxury.

Elsa in this story is a girl whose guardian loses her inheritance for her. Later she falls in love with a man she believes penniless, although he is a millionaire who has changed places with his chauffeur to prove that one can be happy or unhappy in any station in life. Edward Coxen plays the role of this "happy masquerader."

MATERNAL LOVE BASIS OF FEATURE, "THE TARGET"

Hobart Bosworth is the star of the latest two-part drama, "The Target." The subject sets out to demonstrate that every man's friend will forsake him, deceive him and betray him when personal desires interfere. Sam is the discovery of Big Bill Brent, an honest lawyer, whose plot-form is made up of two planks—truth and sincerity.

Big Bill is made the victim of a woman of the world, a selfish party-ner and a number of other personally ambitious souls who forget that they once held the object of their attacks as a friend. Lastly, however, Big Bill discovers that his mother is the best friend he ever had or ever will have.

GERALDINE FARRAR

IN THIRD PHOTO PLAY
Geraldine Farrar's third photo play soon will be seen in local playhouses. "Maria Rosa" is the picture of a Spanish play well known in Europe.

It is of interest to recall that it was during the filming of "Maria Rosa" that Lou Tellegen, now Geraldine's husband, first met the Metropolitan opera singer. Lou Tellegen played in "Maria Rosa" during its presentation in New York and was consulted concerning it.

Waikiki Reid, who played Don Jose to Miss Farrar's "Carmen," and Pedro de Cordoba, Miss Farrar's leading man in "Temptation," both are in the cast of "Maria Rosa."

Little Jane Lee, the unique child actress has been in Jamaica for months, where she has lived in the open air and in the water. To avoid becoming as brown as a little Indian she wears a mohammedan costume and goes about hooded and cowed like a little monk.

Winnifred Greenwood.

An old time favorite with silent drama fans. She started in when the motion picture world was young.

Tellegen played in "Maria Rosa" during its presentation in New York and was consulted concerning it.

EMOTIONAL PLAY FOR LILLIAN GISH

Favorite Young Actress Scores in Thrilling Drama of Stage and Society at Princess.

How the rose-like, flamboyant chaos of a woman won a man from his life-like wife, was pictured in "The Lily and the Rose," the Triangle feature at the Princess last night. Dorothy Gish played the part of the sweet southern lily and Rosalita Dolly that of the rose. Wilfred Lucas was the husband of Miss Gish, and the interest of the story revolved around the winning of him away from his wife by the dashing, daring Rosalita Dolly. Miss Gish relieved what might be a somewhat depressing role by her transitions of emotional acting, as in the finale of the piece she appeared to gradually forget the disaster that came to her through marriage with a man about town and took a new interest in an old friend of her childhood. "Great Accum Robbery," the Keystone comedy, gave Charles Murray a chance to star as a great dime novel detective and was an ideal fun-maker in comic characters and funny happenings.

Lillian Gish in "The Lily and the Rose," and the Keystone film will be shown again this evening at the Princess.

MARGUERITE CLARK IN ROLE OF ORPHAN

"The best laid plans of mice and men, oft go agley." This little quotation from the Scotch was the basis of the merry romance of early Virginia, in which dainty and round cheeked Marguerite Clark was seen at the Apollo yesterday. Miss Clark packed the theatre yesterday as she did the day before in a former success.

Miss Clark makes a very realistic orphan child, for she brushed her hair back skin tight, and made never an effort at fluffiness of any sort. But she isn't always an orphan. She was adopted by a kindly philosopher in pursuit of some counsel he once read about the way to secure a suitable wife, being to raise her up in the way he wished her to go. But there's many a slip, etc.

Miss Clark, with her round, white shoulders and her fluffy hoop skirts, renews her perennial charm, and the other players make left associates. The extra single real feature which the Apollo is running each Monday and Wednesday, makes no small part of the evening's attraction. Last night the Paramount-Bay Cartoons brought many a chuckle while the Dittmar study of the "missing link" was quite interesting.

MUCH GOOD COMEDY IN HICKMAN SHOW

"Never Touch Me" Did Not Fail to Interest Myers Audience.

Finding himself changed from a supposed criminal, continually hounded by the law to an millionaire in one night, was the experience of Guy Hickman last night at the Myers theatre in the role of an ambitious speculator. "Don't Touch Me" was the vehicle which the Hickman-Bessey Company used last night in their effort to please the audience in their third appearance here, and it proved to be the most interesting play they have shown so far. WOMAN'S PAGE

Marrying for Money

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Sick With Today's Grief, Marian Dreams Not of Greater Trials

"Why, what is the matter, Puss?" Dudley came in the den and found Marian lying on the couch sobbing convulsively. She paid no attention to the question and Dudley sat down by her side and began smoothing the tumbled hair.

"What is the matter, Puss?" he asked. "Has anything happened?" He tried to turn the tear-stained face toward him.

"Nothing new needs to happen. Everything has happened that could spoil our lives. We have no home. Daddy is badgered nearly sick, and you are devoting your spare moments to making that blackly girl's visit pleasant."

"Why, Marian!" interrupted Dudley in surprise.

"It's true! I have not had a chance to see you for the last two weeks. It was bad enough before we had to come up here to see anything, but each other, but now I have lost you as well as my home and all the rest." Marian covered her eyes with her handkerchief to give her undivided attention to her grief.

Dudley shook her gently by the shoulders, saying, "Nonsense, Marian, what an imagination you have. We have enough genuine trouble without trumping up imaginary grievances to swell the sum. I can't treat a guest in the house impudently just because her name is Hilly."

"She is no guest of ours. I do not see why you are called to devote yourself to her," blazed the girl, removing her wet handkerchief from her eyes.

"Devoted myself to her!" exploded Dudley. "What do you mean?"

"Some people have very extensive ideas as to what civility requires," was the peevish answer.

Dudley perceived that in her present mood an appeal to reason was of no use, so he used his strongest plea, one that rarely failed with his sister.

"Marian, you are making me very unhappy. I would not hurt you for the world. You surely do not want to give me pain."

"You said I didn't want to give you pain." The girl's arms were around his neck. "But I have been so miserable. Daddy is not like himself. I do not believe he is well, and I feel as though I would lose you, too, you who are all I have." Tears began to flow afresh.

"Don't you care?" She can't stay much longer, and—

"To begin to hope?" interrupted the girl smiling through her tears. "She's been here over five weeks."

"So we'll just make the best of it to the end."

"To the end," echoed the girl, kissing him. "I can bear anything if I have you to help me." She did not know how slow her words were called upon to show the truth of her statement.

The two sat and talked till Dudley, piling up his watch, exclaimed: "We must go to supper. Tupper will be waiting now. I am afraid."

"You go on. My eyes are too red to face the enemy. After you are all at the table I can sneak up to my room and Tupper will give me something to eat in the kitchen after they are safely out of the way." She smiled a farewell to him as he ran down the stairs.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters may be addressed to MRS. THOMPSON in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl sixteen years old, and I am in high school this year. About three months ago I met a young man three years older than I and liked him very much.

We have been going together ever since and our friendship has grown into love. He is so good to me and so thoughtful. He has taken me to his home many times and his folks seem to like me, too. He tells me often that he loves me, but has never asked me to marry him. I speak often of the future and seems to really want me. He is so sensible about everything and says we are only "kids" yet. Do you think he really loves me and should I let him?

I am a sensible girl and would not think of marrying until I am older. But I know how to take him. My folks like him very much.

(2) Is it proper for a young man to take a girl's arm in a crowd? Or should he offer his arm to the lady?

E. M.

Don't tell him that you love him until he asks you to marry him. Probably he feels that you and he are too young to become engaged. And of course you are.

(3) He should take her arm. It is not really proper that a girl should go to a crowd or crossing the street.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) My sister is two years my senior and she has been married for three years. I do not think I ought to go as much as she.

(2) What would be a reasonable tip for him?

(3) Can you give us a good cure for bunions?

(4) We are sixteen and eighteen years old. Are we too young to go joy riding with boy friends?

DEONDE AND NETTE.

(1) Yes. (2) Five or ten cents. (3) I have never heard of a cure for bunions. It relieves the joint to rub it with iodine and wear a bunion plaster which can be procured at any drug store. (4) Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) When travelling should the person pay the boy who carries her parcels from one train to another?

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Letters may be addressed to Wm. A. BRADY, M. D., in care of the Gazette.

THE SACRO-ILIAC JOINT AND LAM EBACK

Rheumatism, "sciatica," and that other ailment known as "lumbago" are all non-contagious, "sciatic" rheumatism, are all always what they seem. Even "growing pains" are open to question, since it is hard to see how it can hurt to grow.

The sacro-iliac joint is the joint between the sacrum at the base of the spine and the hip bones on either side. This joint is subject to strain, sprain and relaxation. Only within recent years have we learned that in many cases of "lumbago," "sciatica," and "rheumatism" of the back are in reality cases of strained sacro-iliac joint.

In women, more than in men, there is a tendency to relaxation of this joint. Especially during the periods and after the childbirth are the ligaments and supports of the joint relaxed and subject to strains.

Erratic burdens, while in stooping posture, such as a woman carrying a basket on her head, lifting a pan from the floor, lifting a pan from a stove, and the like, would bring considerable strain on these joints and possibly cause trouble.

The backache of bed-ridden invalids is often a sacro-iliac strain, and hence preventable by a firm mattress and non-sagging springs, or by a pillow or other support under the back of the body.

The pain of sacro-iliac joint trouble may be felt in the joint, in the hip, the thigh, or even the leg—in other words at the terminals of the great globose nerves that pass directly over the joint down the limb.

The pain is apt to be sudden when turning in bed or changing posture. A crick in the back is generally a strained sacro-iliac joint.

Liniments, alleged "uric acid eliminators," baths, mineral springs, faith and optimism won't help the trouble. Proper support of adhesive plaster strapping around the pelvis, or by a wide elastic bandage worn snugly and low down about the hips will relieve.

Sloping in chairs—and a number of chairs are built in a very sloping position—will strain the sacro-iliac joint and cause backache. Standing lopsided also helps to bring trouble.

Wearing corsets merely for fashion's or custom's sake of course weakens the muscles and ligaments of the joint and hence invites trouble in the joints, that being one reason why women are more liable to sacro-iliac strain than men.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Is cancer of the throat contagious?

Answer—No one can say that cancer is, or is not contagious, because no one knows. Good authorities are inclined to attribute cancer to some form of organism, which might be transferred in kissing.

We Believe in Drugs, Plus Brains.

I cannot resist telling you how glad we are that you advise proper feeding, fresh air, hygiene, fasting and other sensible measures rather than drugs, which all physicians know are only a hindrance and injury instead of a help. We people who disbelieve in drugs rejoice to see a doctor with your courage.

Household Hints

NEW METHOD OF SPRINKLING CLOTHES.

Have a bread tray to use as a sprinkling board. First take the colored clothes, straighten each piece smooth and sprinkle, and keep on with all, finishing with the sheets and bath towels. Then take the light-colored articles, such as white shirts, and sprinkle them with water. The handkerchiefs, and napkins do the same.

Apple Pie—Apple pie made with a layer of finely shaved cheese over the usual filling, is liked by many who are fond of cheese served with apple pie. One-half cup of cheese (apple syrup can be used), three eggs (one whole and one white), add a small pinch of baking soda; one cup dried cocoanut (drain). Bake a half hour in a moderate oven (not longer). Oven must be hot when pie is put in.

Excellent Pie—Put flour in mixing bowl, make a hole in center, add one cup lard, one-fourth teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt, enough cold water to make a soft dough that will roll nicely. Handle as little as possible. This makes a very "short" crust.

LOBSTER DISHES.

LOBSTER TO BE EATEN, should be perfectly fresh. One of the tests of freshness is to draw back the tail; if it springs into position again it is safe to think the fish will be good.

The time of boiling varies with the size of the lobster and in different localities. The usual way is to plunge the lobster into boiling water enough to cover and to continue boiling until done. Much cooking toughens it and destroys the delicate flavor.

LOBSTER SOUFFLE—Two pounds lobster, three tablespoons mayonnaise, one cup aspic jelly, one-half cup tomato sauce, one-half teaspoon vinegar. Cut lobster into small pieces and put bands of writing paper about one inch high around as many remaining cases as wish to serve. Beat mayonnaise, aspic jelly and tomato sauce together until they begin to look white. Stir in the pieces of lobster and cut to stiffen in a very cold place. When set, take out the papers carefully, garnish with lobster coral or browned crumbs.

LOBSTER SALAD—One good-sized lobster, one head lettuce, one-half cup mayonnaise dressing, one measure French dressing. Cut meat into small dice, marinate with the French dressing, set aside to season. Chop lettuce and chill. At serving time combine meat and lettuce, mix with dressing, place in salad bowl with crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with small leaves and small claws.

Shrimp, crabs and crawfish are prepared the same way.

LOBSTER A NEWBORN—Two small lobsters, one cup cream, four tablespoons butter, two tablespoons sherry, yolks four eggs, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup cream, few grains mayonnaise. Cut lobster into small pieces, cook them slowly in butter for five minutes, add the seasonings and the sherry, and simmer five minutes longer. Combine the cream with the beaten yolks and pour slowly into cooking mixture. Stir constantly for one minute. Garnish with triangles of puff paste.

FOR YOUNG MOTHERS.

Stretch baby's woolen stockings over catsup bottles; also sleeves of baby's shirt; hang out on line. The weight of bottles stretches the body of the shirt.

Sew tape on dresses, nighties and skirts instead of buttons or safety pins.

Put a pinch of salt in a little hot water for colic.

Scour rubber nipples with salt.

To cure a child of stuttering, teach him to sing.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To keep cut ham from spoiling rub the cut side and bone with salt.

When kitchen sash curtains are inclined to stick to the window with frost and steam, fasten cord across the lower part of the sash with just tacks in each corner. The curtain never clings to the window and keeps clean much longer.

LOVE, DEATH AND FAILURE CHIEF CAUSES OF SUICIDE REPORTED BY JAPANESE

Tokio, March 9.—Unconsummated love, debt and the failure of men of education to earn a sufficient living are given by a writer in the well-known Chuo Koron review as the three chief causes of suicide in Japan.

The increase of suicide in recent years has caused medical experts considerable anxiety. The writer expressed the opinion that the number of suicides is larger than appears in the press and is struck by the fact that the number of cases of self-destruction seems to have increased with the development of western civilization.

He says: "Late spring and early summer seem to furnish the greater number of victims, so that heat has evidently an irritating effect on the mind, producing the melancholy that leads to suicide. In spite of the fact that the habit is regarded as evil, many look to it as the only relief from misery. Though suicide is condemned by both Christianity and Mohammedanism, many Japanese regard it as sometimes a means toward a higher end. The evil is due to a more insistent spirit of pessimism following the wave of materialism in evidence after the wars with Russia and China. Lack of imagination breeds a deep feeling that life is a struggle for material forces and knows no other source of relief naturally leaves the victim in fatal despair. The writer is pessimistic as to the future, for he finds that for not many years has Japanese society been in such a state of stagnancy and gloom."

Statistics show that the greater number of suicides are among the young and that the favored methods of seeking death are by throwing themselves in front of railroad trains and by casting themselves over water falls. So many people jump to death over the Kegon waterfall precipice at Chuzenji in late years that the authorities built a high wall to deter would-be suicides. The waterfall is one of the most beautiful in Japan.

GENUINE COURTSHIP REPORTED IN FRANCE

Real Love as an Incident to Marriages in France Since The War.

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 8.—Genuine courtship—real love-making—is an incident that war has brought to France. It has developed into a revolution of the marriage system, and is almost certain in any case to be the death of much of the red tape that has entangled, and more or less strangled, the marriage system.

Marriage was hard hit during the first months of the war, but by reason of the authorization of unions by proxy and the infusion of war romance it is rapidly recovering.

In Paris there were only 768 marriages in January 1915 as against 2,341 in January 1914. In December 1915 there were 1,289 showing a remarkable recovery under the circumstances.

In a great many of these war marriages, it is noticed that girls without fortune are in the time being running their more favored sisters a close race, since in a great proportion of the marriages celebrated since hostilities began the marriage contract has been dispensed with; no mention of dowry nor talk about money; romance has taken the place of finance.

Wounded heroes have in hundreds of cases fallen in love with and married their nurses; nearly every day the story is told of some man in a fighting regiment corresponding with the girl he loves in the rear, and when he comes home or leaves to find that his "godmother" is worth marrying for herself.

Women and girls acting as "godmothers" to unknown soldiers at the front have developed what is lightly called "the first at the front" into formidable proportions, and this at this moment perhaps the most efficient marriage agency in the world. The sacrifices made by some girls marrying soldiers who have been blinded, or maimed almost to the point of total helplessness have spread the contagion, and love affairs are born at every hand by the close communion of sympathetic minds centered on great events, and through the constant movement of soldiers coming in contact with new faces, every one of which under present circumstances is bound to be sympathetic.

Some psychologists have inquired whether there was not in France a crying need for deeper affection, and whether the decreasing natality in the country was not in great part due to the obstacles of marriage and the more material considerations that always entered into it. The soul-stirring incidents of the war have unquestionably helped everyone to a closer union and there seems to have been a general wiping out of old scores that kept acquaintances and even families apart. There have been many reconciliations through the exchange of news of the exploits of mutual friends, and many instances of divided families reunited over the tomb of a fallen hero.

Young people are now being brought together not by contract nor by the attraction of wealth, but simply by the greater force now asserting itself of love, hope and common will. It is asked whether it will continue after the war, and what effect it will have upon the future of France, an idealistic people, after being held in material bondage so far as concerns so vital a question to the race, is coming out so strong in the present irresistible appeal of romance that many believe it will result in a transformation, if not in a revolution, of the marriage system. Some contend that men will marry younger and marry for love instead of for money and the marriage will be more sincere and that with the stronger tie of affection taking the place of interest, divorce will become less frequent and the population will grow correspondingly more numerous.

Read and use the want ads. They are sure winners.

"He, of course, got married, because he wanted to, and the singular part of it was that he did not mate with a 'meek' woman. Perhaps he thought she was meek, for before marriage there is a habit of deference on both sides which is misleading and sometimes troublesome."—Stephens.

A girl with a supercilious mouth and a generally snifty, disagreeable expression sat opposite me on the trolley the other day.

"I shouldn't think," she'd be very good company for herself or anyone else," I ruminated to myself as I studied her face.

A few minutes later, a young man got on the trolley and advanced toward the girl, evidently by appointment. He sat down beside her and I looked at them with great interest—all the world loves a lover, you know—and lo and behold, I found that the girl with the supercilious mouth and the snifty, disagreeable expression had vanished and in her place was a girl with shining eyes, a pleasant smile on her lips and a general air of animation and amiability.

That was the girl the man saw. No wonder he liked and admired her as he evidently did. And that was probably the only girl he has ever loved. At some future day, after the marriage, perhaps he will see the girl I saw at first.

SIDE TALKS —By— RUTH CAMERON

FRIENDS AFTER ALL.

"He, of course, got married, because he wanted to, and the singular part of it was that he did not mate with a 'meek' woman. Perhaps he thought she was meek, for before marriage there is a habit of deference on both sides which is misleading and sometimes troublesome."—Stephens.

A girl with a supercilious mouth and a generally snifty, disagreeable expression sat opposite me on the trolley the other day.

"I shouldn't think," she'd be very good company for herself or anyone else," I ruminated to myself as I studied her face.

A few minutes later, a young man got on the trolley and advanced toward the girl, evidently by appointment. He sat down beside her and I looked at them with great interest—all the world loves a lover, you know—and lo and behold, I found that the girl with the supercilious mouth and the snifty, disagreeable expression had vanished and in her place was a girl with shining eyes, a pleasant smile on her lips and a general air of animation and amiability.

That was the girl the man saw. No wonder he liked and admired her as he evidently did. And that was probably the only girl he has ever loved. At some future day, after the marriage, perhaps he will see the girl I saw at first.

The Girl Didn't Mean to Cheat.

AMERICAN BUILDERS OF SHIPS HAVE BIG ORDERS THIS YEAR

Shipbuilding industry on Great Lakes
After Being Dormant Reviving
This Season.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, March 9.—The shipbuilding industry on the Great Lakes after lying dormant more or less for half a decade, is enjoying a revival of prosperity, according to reports from shipyards at and near Cleveland, Detroit, Toledo, Buffalo, N. Y., Chicago and smaller Great Lakes ports.

The opening of the Panama canal, the activities of submarine and the heavy increase in exports are considered the immediate causes of the shipbuilding boom. The claim is made, without denial from the builders, that old ships and vessels now under construction are bringing better prices than in many years.

This boom will bring millions of dollars of business to the dozen or so of shipbuilding companies, and create new work for hundreds of men and already has caused the rebuilding of old yards and the planning of several new ones.

The demand is strong for both lake and ocean vessels and only the inability of the builders to give assurance of delivery of the ships by 1917 stands in the way of even heavier orders. Foreign orders are prominent among the buyers.

Saw Necessity. With the first class of arms in Europe, shipbuilders saw the necessity for building boats of war, and some foreign buyers for new vessels and some for old. One New York capitalist obtained at least four large Great Lakes package freighters. At the Welland canal these ships had to be continued the trip to the coast.

The tremendous amount of shipping that has gone to the bottom in the war zone together with the fact that many of the shipyards in England have been turned over almost exclusively to ships of war, has forced foreign buyers to look to American shipbuilders for new vessels and some for old.

Cleveland alone reports the closing of contracts for 46 vessels, at an aggregate cost of more than $8,000,000 and that negotiations are in progress for 30 more ships. These orders are being filled at Cleveland, Toledo, Lorain and Ashtabula, O., Buffalo, N. Y., and other ports.

The Toledo Shipbuilding company is working on an eastern order for five schooners with auxiliary power plants to be used in coastwise trade. A lake freighter 600 feet long is also being set up at Toledo and the total tonnage of the Toledo contracts is said to be $3,000,000.

Action in Detroit. Detroit reports the receipt of orders for a score of ships by Michigan companies and Ohio firms not mentioned in the Cleveland reports. The tonnage of the vessels that will be under construction in Michigan harbors during 1916 is estimated at 100,000.

Duluth says the first ship to be built at the Superior, Mich., yards since 1910 will be constructed this year. The steel can be secured. The scarcity of steel also is mentioned from Detroit. The inability to purchase greater quantities of building material, Detroit says, has caused several companies from enlarging their plants.

At Chicago, the Calumet docks which have been occupied only with repair work during the last eight years have just received an order for the construction of a freight steamer, 250 feet long and 43.6 foot beam. This boat, which is to be launched the latter part of April, was ordered through New York agents for a concern in Norway, the name of which is not known at the Calumet docks.

Detroit firms have received orders from Eastern shippers which under normal conditions would have been built on or near the salt water. Eastern coast shippers, it is evident, are buying freighters wherever they can be obtained.

Of the ships ordered at Cleveland, a score will be built at Lake Erie yards where they will be sent to the Atlantic coast, and a dozen or more will be launched at the Great Lakes during the current year. Four more are to be delivered to the coast in 1917.

Orders Received. The American Shipbuilding company at Cleveland has an order for six steam freighters from Norwegian interests and the Toledo Shipbuilding company for four boats from the same source. The latter company also is building six auxiliary schooners for New York interests.

The Manitowish Shipbuilding company has orders for three steam freighters from a Boston concern and for a government survey boat to be used in Alaskan waters. Five huge bulk freighters are to be built by the American Shipbuilding company at the Lorain yards in 1916 and ten in 1917. Orders for seven other such boats for 1916 delivery have been distributed among smaller shipyards on the Great Lakes.

At Cleveland it is understood that Italian interests are negotiating for 25 ocean-going trading vessels of 3,000 tons each, in addition to all this this building activity, 44 freighters with a total capacity of 112,700 tons, have changed hands on the Great Lakes in the vicinity of Cleveland since the first of the year. Since last October, when the present boom first began to be felt, 80 vessels with an aggregate tonnage of 500,000 have been sold on the Great Lakes. This is exclusive of package freighters and Canadian ships.

A new shipbuilding company has just been organized at Duluth by Captain Alexander MacDougall, who has been interested in the Collingwood yards. The new company already has an order for a boat of the Welland canal size.

GERMAN SAVINGS BANKS MAKE REMARKABLE RECORD

Berlin, March 9.—The German savings banks scored a remarkable record in 1915, according to a statement just issued by Herr Reusch, the statistician of these institutions who estimates that the savings banks of the year reached at least $900,000,000 not taking account of the amounts withdrawn for making subscriptions to the two war loans of the year. As subscriptions to the war loans amounted to about $1,070,000,000, the total reduction of deposits was about $170,000,000. Reusch further says that the gain in deposits was not due entirely to money being brought to the banks, but also to a much larger extent than ever it was due to the fact that depositors withdrew less money for ordinary purposes than ever before. The number of outstanding books in which the accounts of depositors are kept was increased in 1915 at a rate never before recorded. An inquiry made in the larger towns and industrial centers shows that these books, increased by the rate of increase in the country districts was fully as great.

EDGERTON MEETS OREGON IN GAME AT TOURNAMENT

Edgerton, March 9.—The Edgerton high school will meet the Oregon high school basketball team tonight in their first game at the Whitewater tournament. The drawing for places at the tournament took place last Monday when the tournament officials met and made the arrangements. Coach Laureaux has put the boys through some stiff practice the past week, preparatory to the tournament and the boys are in the best of condition for the final struggle. The games scheduled for today are as follows: At 4:30 P. M. Adkinson will meet Whitewater; at 7:00 Oregon vs. Edgerton; 8:00 o'clock Janesville vs. Beatty; 9:00 the Evansville vs. Broadhead. The winners will play the final games for the championship of the tournament Saturday. A good many Edgerton rooters have planned to go to the game and the boys will receive their usual amount of support.

The clean-shaven, American motor ambulance drivers, mostly Harvard men, who have shared in the operations around the Bois de la Pierre for nearly a year, have set a fashion in Pont-a-Mousson. The "Mussingtons," as the inhabitants of this old Lorraine town are called, have purchased razors, and even the soldiers resting here between two turns in the trenches go back beardless in honor of the Americans.

The garage of the section of the American ambulance operating here is located at Dieulouard where occurred one of the bloody engagements of the battle of Nancy. There were only three cars at the beginning, but they have been increased to 25, running every hour of the twenty-four when there is an action. When there's nothing doing at the front, three cars are kept at the relief post for emergencies, and the others in the garage ready for one of the systematic bombardments of Pont-a-Mousson.

Low Price Loses out Against Low Cost

PRICE may sell some things to farmers, but price alone is a poor argument compared with the records for low cost of operation made by Mogul kerosene engines.

Because they run on kerosene, Mogul engines produce farm power at the lowest possible cost.

You know what gasoline costs. You know, too, what kerosene costs. Take the difference—multiply it by the number of gallons of fuel an engine will consume in five years, figuring one pint of fuel per horse power per hour.

At what price must you buy a gasoline engine to make it cost you as little as a Mogul does? Could you afford to accept a gasoline engine as a gift? See the dealer about this. He has the figures all worked out for you on all sizes of Mogul engines from 1 to 50 H. P.

The "Mussingtons," as the inhabitants of this old Lorraine town are called, have purchased razors, and even the soldiers resting here between two turns in the trenches go back beardless in honor of the Americans.

The garage of the section of the American ambulance operating here is located at Dieulouard where occurred one of the bloody engagements of the battle of Nancy. There were only three cars at the beginning, but they have been increased to 25, running every hour of the twenty-four when there is an action. When there's nothing doing at the front, three cars are kept at the relief post for emergencies, and the others in the garage ready for one of the systematic bombardments of Pont-a-Mousson.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, March 9, 1876.—Thirty-six degrees above was all the thermometer could muster together this morning.

William H. Ebbets, our former townman, has been retained to conduct the trial of David Spellman, for the murder of Mrs. Parker, in Milwaukee.

The view at the old cotton mill was quite lively. A large force is at work and it begins to look as though business was earnestly commenced.

Burr Robbins' four-horse team attempted to give us a local item today, but were prevented by the watchful driver. Robbins' four-horse team have the habit of furnishing local items occasionally, one of them running away last year.

A bill passed the senate this morning appropriating $90,000 for the rebuilding of the Institute of the Blind in this city. The hardest fight on the bill will probably take place in the assembly, but the strongest hopes are entertained by the friends of the bill that it will be concurred in.

The Hapsburg family, he urged upon Premier Briand, is Germany's slave and while it continues to reign, Austria will be a German colony. Not only is there no prospect of Austria-Hungary will turn against Germany, as some imagine, but pan-Germanism is gaining ground at Budapest as well as at Vienna, the professor insists.

But if Austria-Hungary should be eliminated as a national entity, it has been suggested to the Bohemian leader, would not Germany necessarily and the Austrian Germans to her own citizens, thereby gain strength by about 7,000,000 population?

Yes, of course, agreed the professor, but that would be better than at present, for now with the Hapsburgs' help, Berlin's rule extends indirectly over 51,000,000 Austro-Hungarian subjects.

Austria's destruction would mean destruction of the nations of which Austria is composed, adds the professor, not would the Hapsburg dynasty's overthrow necessarily mean that these nations could not constitute a federation, but if such federation is to exist, it ought not to be under Germany's wing but under the wing of the allies.

Germany Emperor Plans to Form a Federation of Central European States

Paris, March 9.—The Kaiser plans to establish a powerful federation of central and near eastern European states. He seeks to bring 87,000,000 Austrians, Hungarians, Serbians, Roumanians, Bulgarians, Montenegrins, Turks and Greeks under German domination.

This is the opinion of Prof. Masaryk, former Bohemian leader in the Austrian Reichsrath, who escaped from Austria at the beginning of the war and has spent his time since in France and England, the soul of the movement to restore Bohemia's independence. He discussed the situation recently with Premier Briand and was encouraged by the premier to persevere in his effort to free his country from Hapsburg rule.

The surest way to prevent realization of the pan-German dream is to uproot the Hapsburg dynasty, Masaryk says. Otherwise, he asserted, even after Germany has been beaten, she will still be capable of further harm. Her vulnerable point, as he views it, is Austria-Hungary.

WAR IS LOSING MONEY FOR THE EUROPEAN PAPERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Berlin, March 9.—Although the war has not yet caused a great increase in the reading of newspapers, this fact appears to have brought no pecuniary advantage to the newspapers themselves. This is evident from a statement just issued by the society of German newspaper publishers, given out at a convention held in Berlin. This statement says that the public holds quite erroneous views about the prosperity of the newspapers; that while they have, indeed, increased their sales, receipts from advertising—the largest source of income from all newspapers—have been sharply reduced. In some cases by more than one half. On the other hand, the expenses in the editorial departments have greatly increased, and the cost of paper has become such a serious matter as to cause the suspension of a number of publications. The statement appeals to the government to fix maximum prices for paper, in order to insure the continued and regular publication of the newspapers. The government is also asked to adopt measures, after consultation with the Society of Publishers, for restricting the consumption of paper as long as the war lasts.

GOV. PHILIPP COMMUTES THE SENTENCES OF TWO

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Madison, Wis., March 9.—Two commutations of sentence were granted by Gov. Philipp yesterday. Frank Kavanagh, convicted before the municipal court of Milwaukee on May 22, 1914 of manslaughter in the second degree, had his sentence reduced from five to four years. The sentence of John Omischinski of Menasha, sentenced to four years, was reduced to three years.

ALLIES PURCHASING LIVE NEWSPAPER IS ALL WHEAT POSSIBLE NEED OF COMMUNITY

Great Britain and Allies Buying Vast Stocks of Wheat—Interest to The United States.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 8.—Great Britain and her allies have gone into the wheat business on a very extensive scale, the governments themselves buying vast stocks of wheat—200,000 tons in Australia at a cost of $16,000,000; 250,000 tons in Argentina at a cost of $20,000,000 and the whole remaining crop of Rumania at $50,000,000—in all about $86,000,000, probably the largest bulk expenditure for wheat ever made.

This is a new departure—governments buying up the wheat supply. It has a special interest to the United States for two reasons, namely: First: The rate of American exchange, which went so strongly against England last fall, is dependent on keeping down imports of American wheat, cotton and other products. In this way the balance of trade will not be so heavily against England as it was last fall; the drain of gold to meet that balance will be so heavy, and the exchange rate will remain steady. One of the highest officials of the government told the Associated Press, when the rate of exchange was at its lowest last fall, that the government was buying wheat for England to stop buying wheat in the United States and buy it instead in Australia, Canada and elsewhere. He intimated strongly, too, that the wheat bought apparently it has been done, although the Corn Exchange is flooding the London press with queries as to whether these government purchases are made.

Second: Irrespective of the exchange rate, the government purchase of wheat discloses the tremendous weapon which the Quadruple Allies possess in the control of that fundamental food product. As it stands now, the countries forming the Quadruple Alliance have an enormous stock of wheat about one-half of the total world's crop. The neutral countries come next with about half as much as the Quadruple Allies possess; and the Central Powers come last with a comparatively insignificant stock of the great food staple. A rough summary showing the wheat holdings of the various groups is as follows: Quadruple Allies: 243,452,000 quarters. Neutral countries: 139,181,000 quarters. Central Powers: 56,739,000 quarters. That is, the Quadruple Allies have the bulk of the world's wheat supply and are buying up a good deal of the neutrals' share, while the Central Powers have about one-sixth of the supply of their opponent with little chance of buying up neutrals or getting it delivered if bought.

The details of wheat holdings by the two war groups, and by the neutrals, can be approximately figured out from reports published through the Corn Exchange. While not the actual figures are published in the leading organs of the exchange, as compiled from all available sources, including official figures.

There are of course other factors operating in this war game which affect the foregoing stocks of the various groups. Russia's vast stock is practically sealed up, and while it can supply her own army and people, it cannot get out through the Dardanelles, or westward across the Black Sea. Germany's stock, also, is controlled by the German companies of the country, by arrangement with the neutrals. So that these and some other small grain-producing countries are out of the world's fluctuations of grain as the food-weapon of warfare.

The recent government purchases in Australia and Argentina are referred to in an official statement, which says the British and French governments have purchased 200,000 tons of wheat from Australia, the share of the British government being 50,000 tons. The Argentine purchase, the statement says, was 250,000 tons by the British government and 250,000 tons by the Argentine government. The Argentine purchase is valued at $15,000,000 for the Argentine and $20,000,000 for the Argentine supplies. Details of the Italian purchase are given in letters from Euziarre, stating that Sir George Barclay, the British minister, signed the purchase contract, which the British legation announced was made in behalf of the government. The purchase covered 50,000 car loads at 125 pounds per car load, or a total of ten million bushels, $30,000,000.

Aside from its effect on the American exchange rate, this gathering up of huge stocks of grain appear to be one of the modern methods of warfare, as a reserve food defense for the armies and population, and as another means of wearing down the enemy by shortening his food supply. This has been urged in the past, notably by Mr. Farquhar, M. P., who claims that a first line defense for an insular country like England, liable to be cut off from the food supplies on which it is absolutely dependent, is the building up of a reserve of food against any possible attack against this possibility. And yet it appears to be accepted as a wise precaution that a great wheat reserve should be built up against any eventuality, just as much as a gold reserve. The wheat reserve of London has been running very low of late, being only one-third what it was a year ago, and the price of wheat is falling off at the fifteen great ports of the country. So that this new policy of government wheat purchase is going into operation, with the double purpose of gradually building up a great defensive wheat reserve, and incidentally no doubt keeping down the rate of American exchange.

CHICAGO BOOTBLACKS SEEK RELIEF IN WORK CONDITIONS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, March 9.—A campaign to stave off a famine in boot-black is on here today. Prominent Greeks, assisted by the Greek consuls, national societies, Greek newspapers and settlement leaders, agitated a movement for cleaner living quarters for Greek bootblacks who work from 11 to 18 hours a day in a room, a week and who live nine in a room. The long hours and unhealthy quarters are killing off the brush wielders. George Kasinos, millionaire bootblack, is leading a campaign to "save the bootblacks," of whom there are 2,000 in Chicago.

HOPE TO HAVE ALASKAN RAILROAD IN OPERATION BY FIRST OF NOVEMBER.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, March 9.—With a satisfactory labor supply, and good weather conditions, Chairman W. C. Eddy, Alaska Railroad Commission, hopes to have in operation nearly one third of the proposed government railroad in Alaska, by the first of November.

It is the hope of the commission that the work on the railroad can be pushed to the Mantisuska coal field by fall. At the present the work is being held up, while an emergency bill, authorizing a two million dollar appropriation, is before Congress.

What the opening of this railroad will mean in the development of Alaska is merely a matter of conjecture, but the fact that a town of 1500 has grown up at Anchorage, one of the terminals of the railroad, since the announcement of the route, indicates that the development of the north country will be great when the road finally is completed.

During the coming season it is planned to build about 150 miles of track, which will comprise a connecting line between the Alaska Northern railway, now owned by the government, and the lines under construction. This line will connect the Anchorage into the Mantisuska coal fields and several miles of railroad running out of Fairbanks, the proposed northern terminal of the line.

The construction of this road is a tremendous engineering task. At Broad Pass the line will run through a stretch of twelve miles of almost solid rock, which will entail the building of a new tunnel, the longest of which will be 1100 feet. At Broad Pass also there will have to be constructed a steel bridge 1500 feet in length and at Fairbanks several smaller bridges.

Under favorable conditions by May 1, 4000 men will be employed on the construction work, and more than a million dollars worth of machinery, with a host of other equipment, will be in operation.

Although 22 miles of rail already have been laid between Mantisuska, Alaska, and Anchorage, no attempt has been made to operate the line, which the government has taken over, for a distance of 34 miles out of Seward. Three trains a week have been run on the line, and the operation has been in progress since the cost of maintenance is not included in the operating expenses. Before the Alaska Northern railway can be operated, the full extent of its 71 miles, a large amount of repair work will have to be done, and this will be undertaken during the coming summer.

If the present plan of the commission materialize and a force of 4000 men is put at work, it is believed a large part of this force will locate in Alaska and take advantage of its mineral and agricultural wealth, and thus the first step in the development of the country will have been accomplished.

GERMANY'S NEW LAWS ON EXPORTS OF METAL DOLLAR DAMAGE TO HOLLAND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Rotterdam, Netherlands, March 9.—A stir has been made in the Dutch metal industries by the latest German export measures, which amounts to the annulling of the contract between the firms with the German iron foundries and threatens the firms in question with the loss of millions of dollars. The German government has already turned to England and Scotland for their iron supplies, and would doubtless place big orders in America but for the armament embargo.

Measures decided on with a view to counteracting the very unfavorable exchange rate against Germany, the government in Berlin issued an export prohibition on bar iron, and also on the export of iron ore, at the same time that it consented to export shall only be granted where a minimum price fixed by it is paid. With a view to attaining this minimum price, the sale has been placed in the hands of the Steel Works Union in Düsseldorf. The consequence is that the German iron works prevented by the embargo from the contracts they had entered into with Dutch customers, which would have been at higher prices, are meeting of the leading Dutch engineering and construction companies and connected trades was held recently at which a resolution was passed emphasizing that the carrying out of the measure in question will cause serious damage to Dutch industry, and urging the Netherlands government to take steps to get the export prohibition withdrawn.

A committee was appointed and charged to make representations to the German authorities. Some of the manufacturers present had already placed themselves in communication with the British government for the purpose of obtaining their supplies, and a second committee was nominated to prepare the way for securing other iron consignments in that country.

It is recognized that Germany has a right to obtain higher prices, if it can for its raw iron exports so far as all fresh contracts are concerned, especially when it is remembered that, owing to the withdrawal of labor for the army, only 11,790,199 tons of iron were produced in 1915, as against 14,388,547 tons in 1914, and 15,309,172 tons in 1915. The war has been a serious loss in giving the measure retroactive force and applying it to contracts already signed.

Not export of bar iron is now permitted from Germany, the price of iron has risen to 100 kilograms, which means an increase of more than 60 per cent on the running contracts. This loss is irreparable so far as the manufacturers are concerned, for it is out of the question to transfer the burden to the shoulders of their customers in the case of contracts already entered into.

TRANSFER TEN ACRES OF LAND TO THE STATE FOR THE FAIR GROUNDS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., March 9.—The final transfer of ten acres of land by Milwaukee county to the state for fair grounds is scheduled to take place this week. The county board of supervisors pay the money into court.

This ten acres includes the Fleming tract which has been causing trouble in Milwaukee county for several years since it was first proposed that it be added to the present ground held by the state fair.

The transfer of the land will allow the state fair board to proceed for the state to let contracts for new buildings. The plans now provide for the expenditure of $95,000 on new structures. Of this amount $50,000 will go for two sections of a concrete grand stand and $45,000 for swine and sheep barns. The buildings will be completed in time for the exhibition in September.

The success of the automobile show staged by the Milwaukee auto dealers at the last fair has led the automobile men to lease Machinery ball again for the 1916 fair. About $20,000 will be paid in purses and stakes for the harness and auto races. The premium list has been revised for the first time in ten years.

Monday will be children's day; Tuesday, interurban day; Wednesday, state day; Thursday, Milwaukee day; Friday, automobile day; Saturday, union labor day.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, March 9.—The basketball tournament opened here today at the Normal school gymnasium. The drawing of the places took place last Monday and some very good matches will be played here today. At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon Port Atkinson played Whitewater; 7:00 p. m., Edgerton vs. Oregon; 8:00 p. m., Janesville vs. Beloit; 9:30 p. m., Evansville vs. Broadhead. The losers of today's games will play again on Friday and the winners of the semifinals on Saturday night. The contest between Janesville and Beloit should be a good one as they have two of the strongest teams entered in the tournament. Both teams are in good condition and in their other contests the score was close.

The Monday club met at the Congregational church last evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Upham being host and hostess. The social hour was a success and the members enjoyed the evening.

The annual track and field meet of Ripon and Carroll colleges will be held at Hamilton field in this city on May 20. This is the best athletic contest of Camp Randall Madison, in the state, which no doubt is the reason for the college dual meet here.

Frank Callahan left this morning for Racine to take a position as traveling salesman for the National Biscuit Co.

Erwin Schimmel, son of Gus Schimmel of Richmond is at the hospital here, having had an operation on the throat.

The Whitewater Bridge Co. of this city received the contract to build a bridge at Johnson's creek. Their bid of $4561 was $30 lower than the next highest.

MRS. C. J. ROBERTS, PRESIDENT OF U. B. CHURCH MISSIONARY

The Women's Missionary society of the United Brethren church met Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage. Mrs. Agnes Winslow conducted the study of home missions as an interesting feature. Several matters of business were transacted, including the annual election of officers, which resulted as follows: President—Mrs. C. J. Roberts. Vice President—Mrs. Margaret Chaderton. Secretary—Mrs. Estelle McDaniel. Treasurer—Mrs. J. A. Robinson. Secretary of literature—Mrs. Belle Haig.

Secretary of thank offering department—Mrs. Agnes Winslow. Elegant refreshments were served.

ENJOY SUPPER AND PROGRAM AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

A large crowd, a delicious menu and a thoroughly good time marked the church supper prepared by the ladies of the Congregational church on Wednesday evening. Long tables were spread in the parlors of the church and the first installment of study of home missions, both young ladies and means committee had Mrs. Harry Day as chairman and Mrs. Volcott and Mrs. Craig as assistants. The dining room force consisted of young women of the church, both young ladies and young men, and were in charge of Mrs. Louis Ehrlinger. The committee planned to serve three hundred people. A social hour was spent later in the church parlors, where a pleasing musical program was given under the direction of Prof. Taylor. The selections were as follows: (a) Cavatina. (b) Il Trovatore. (c) Verdi. (d) Violin—Miss Marguerite Thorne. (e) Sacrament. (f) McDermid. (g) Mavis. (h) Craxton. (i) Vocal—Mrs. J. L. Wilcox. (j) Constancy. (k) Smith. (l) "It Is Not Because Your Heart Is Mine." (m) Vocal—Miss Ada Lewis. (n) Vocal—Miss Grace Murphy. (o) Piano—Miss Grace Murphy.

CLASS DISTINCTIONS IN BRITISH SCHOOL QUESTION DEBATED BY AUTHORITIES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 9.—While other educational reformers are striving to displace Latin, Greek and the old non-investigating methods of study with science and modern languages, Alexander Devine, headmaster of Claysmore School, Winchester, has come to the conclusion that the old distinctions in school life. The English elementary and preparatory boarding schools, known here as public schools, are the main part of the aristocratic system. It is necessary that the students of these institutions belong to the gentry, while the free schools are left for the sons of tradesmen and laborers. But it is the public school system, the Englishman of the better class the manner that is his special distinction. To come from a public school almost settles the young Englishman's status in society, gives him in official life and the dignified branches of commercial life, above the menial, are largely limited to public school men. In the present war a regiment of public school boys was organized, so as to gather together those of a good class society.

The name counts much as membership in a college fraternity does in the United States, with the exception that it carries weight among all classes of people in England. Professor Devine said he viewed with deep concern the widening of the gulf between class and class, which was becoming peculiar to England above all the nations of the world, and showed itself strongest in the matter of education. "The upper, or so-called governing classes," he declared, "hold strongly to their own institutions of preparatory and public school, and aristocracy shields itself under an attitude of superiority of blood, breeding and tradition."

"Now men and women of all classes are working together with sympathy and one aim—the dead living side by side, cook's son and duke's son treading the Valley of the Shadow together. Never again will man and woman be quite as the have been in the past. We shall be a lost nation indeed if after this we are not a very different nation."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 9.—While other educational reformers are striving to displace Latin, Greek and the old non-investigating methods of study with science and modern languages, Alexander Devine, headmaster of Claysmore School, Winchester, has come to the conclusion that the old distinctions in school life. The English elementary and preparatory boarding schools, known here as public schools, are the main part of the aristocratic system. It is necessary that the students of these institutions belong to the gentry, while the free schools are left for the sons of tradesmen and laborers. But it is the public school system, the Englishman of the better class the manner that is his special distinction. To come from a public school almost settles the young Englishman's status in society, gives him in official life and the dignified branches of commercial life, above the menial, are largely limited to public school men. In the present war a regiment of public school boys was organized, so as to gather together those of a good class society.
